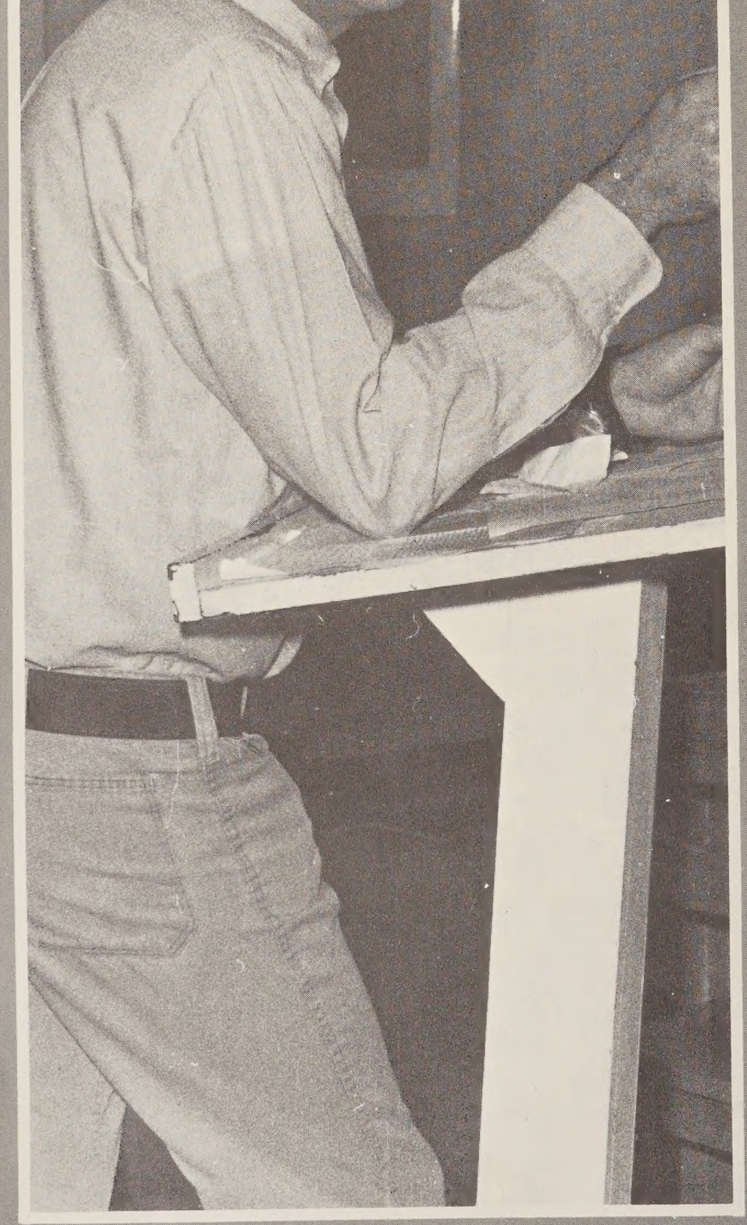
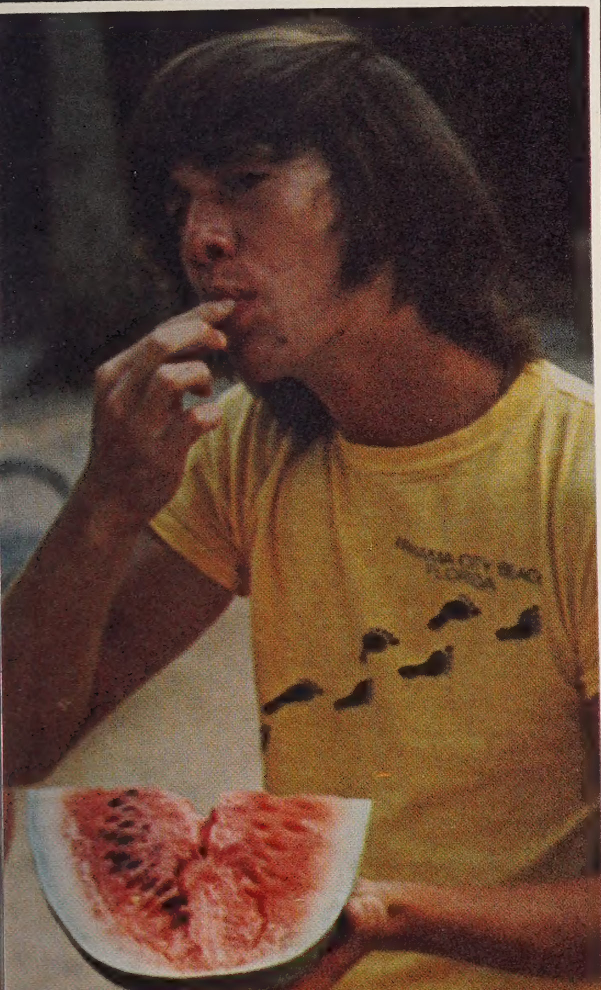
There Must Be More to

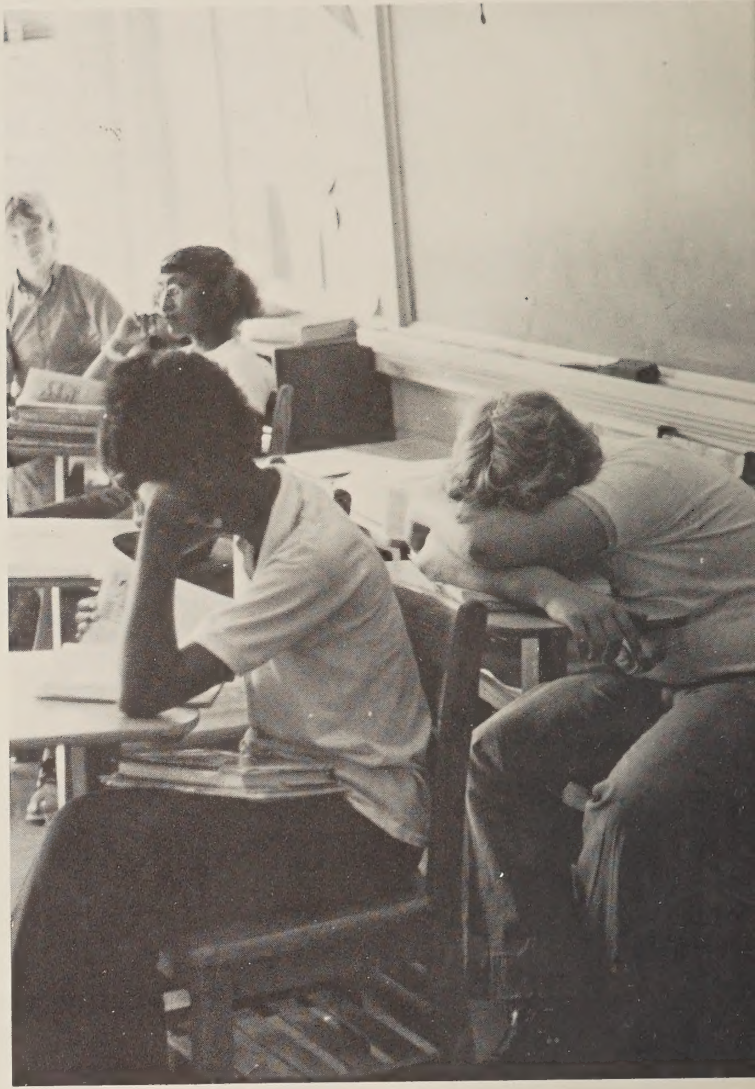


Life Than This

THERE IS!



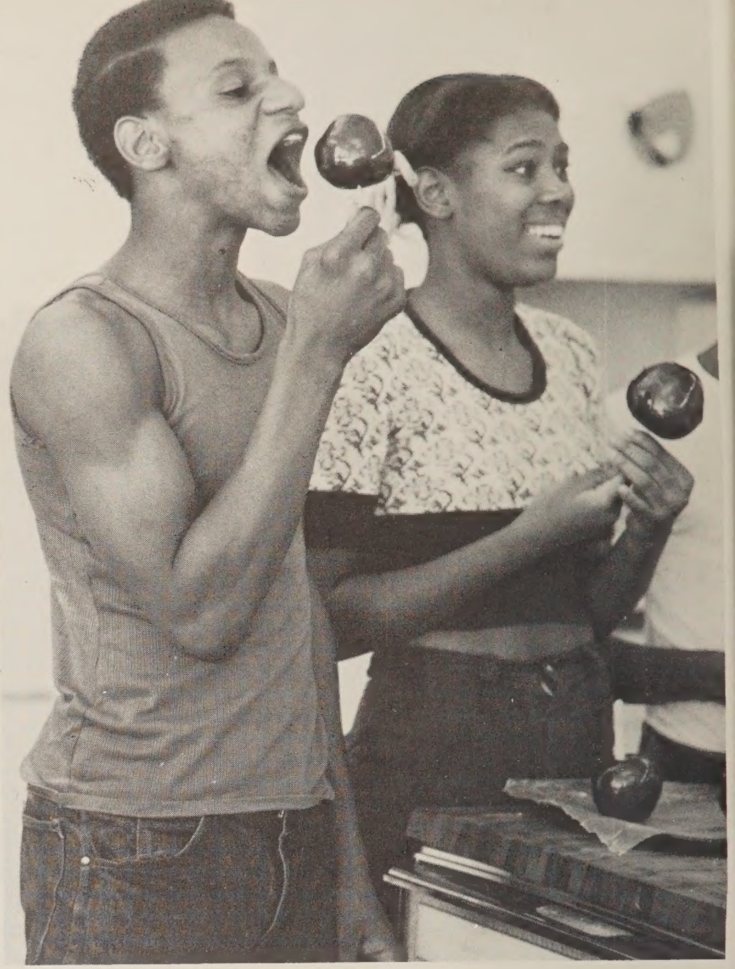
PANAMA CITY BEACH
FLORIDA



Ah, the life of a student! Lectures, tests, bells, crowded rooms. It's not exactly the American Dream, but it's a place to begin.

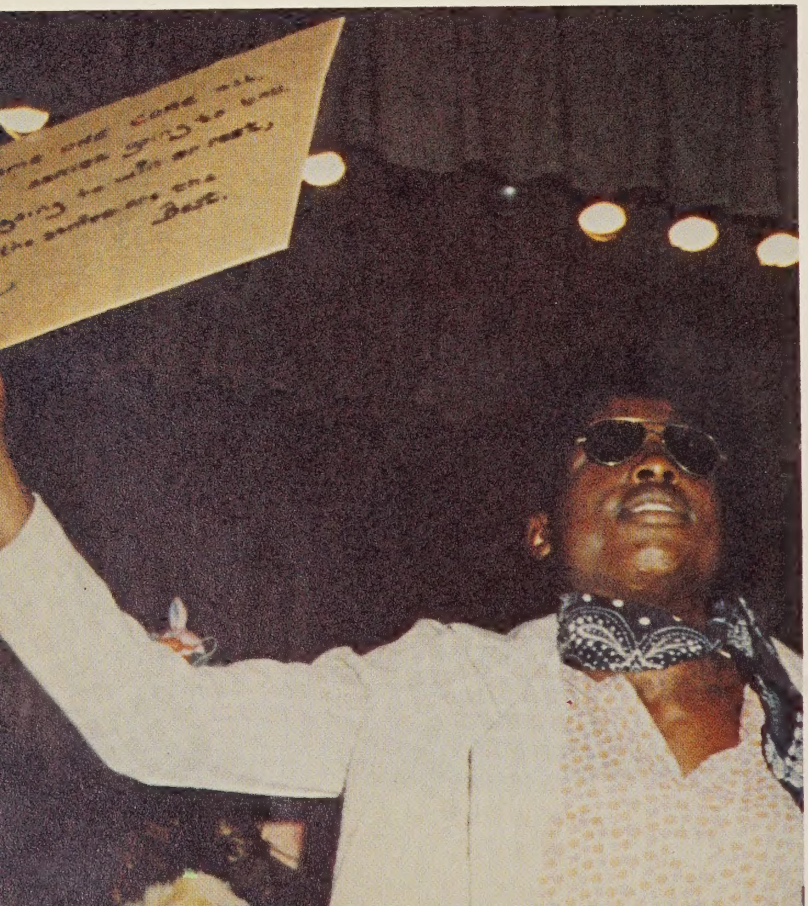
The monotony of a routine day takes its toll in apathy. Sleep and let your dreams excite you, dream of your . . .

. . . Pastimes . . .



. . . Togetherness . . .

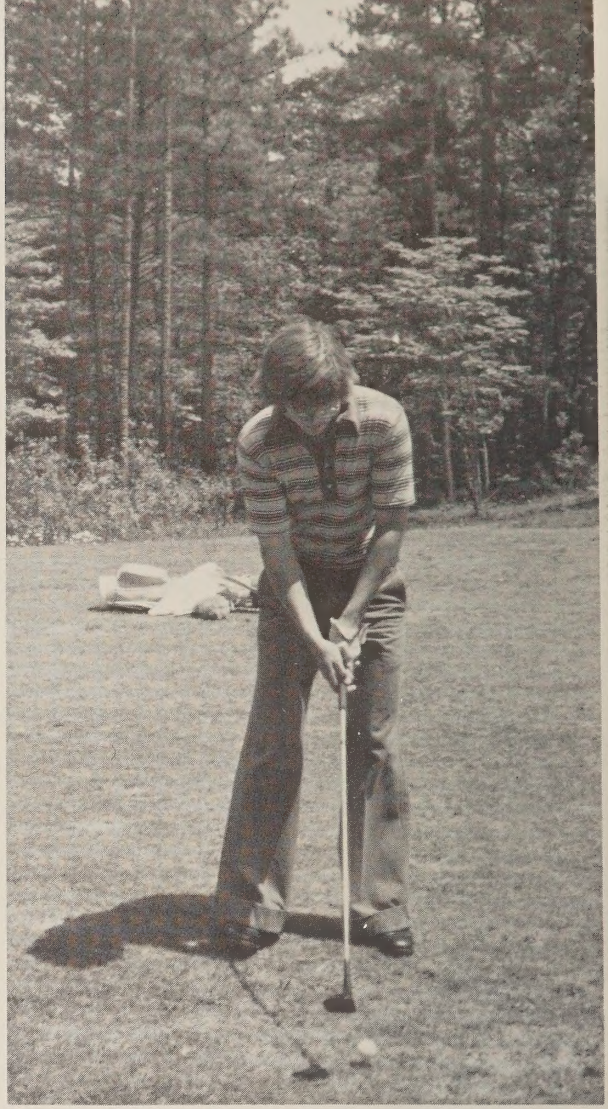
. . . Frivolity . . .

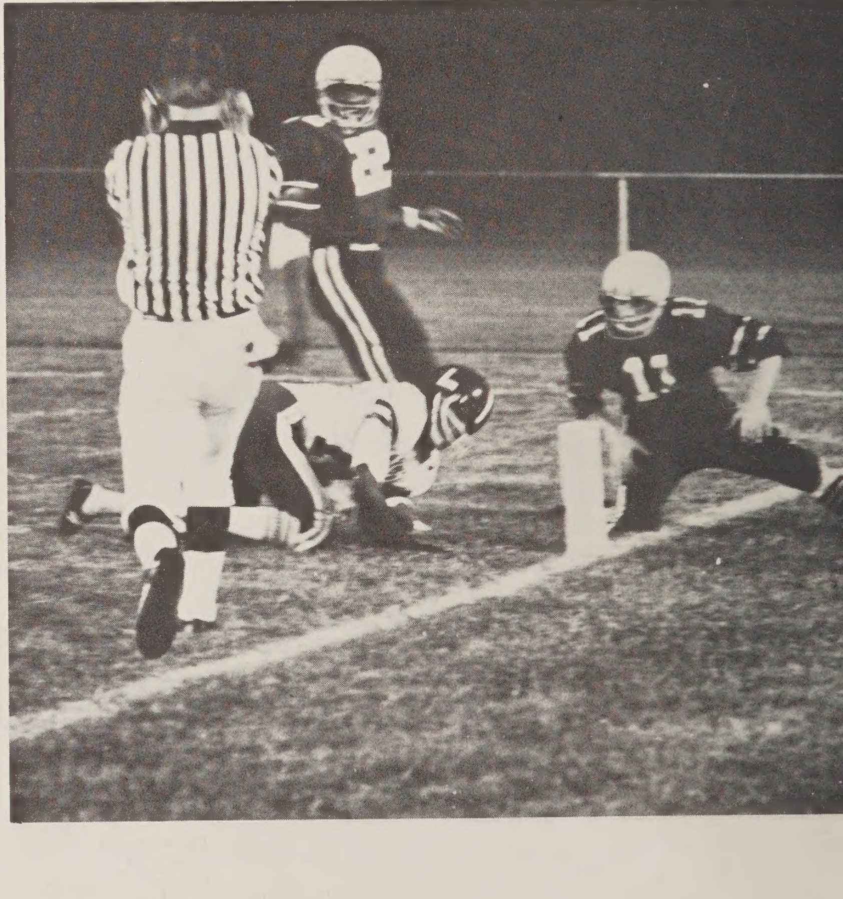


. . . And the Fair . . .

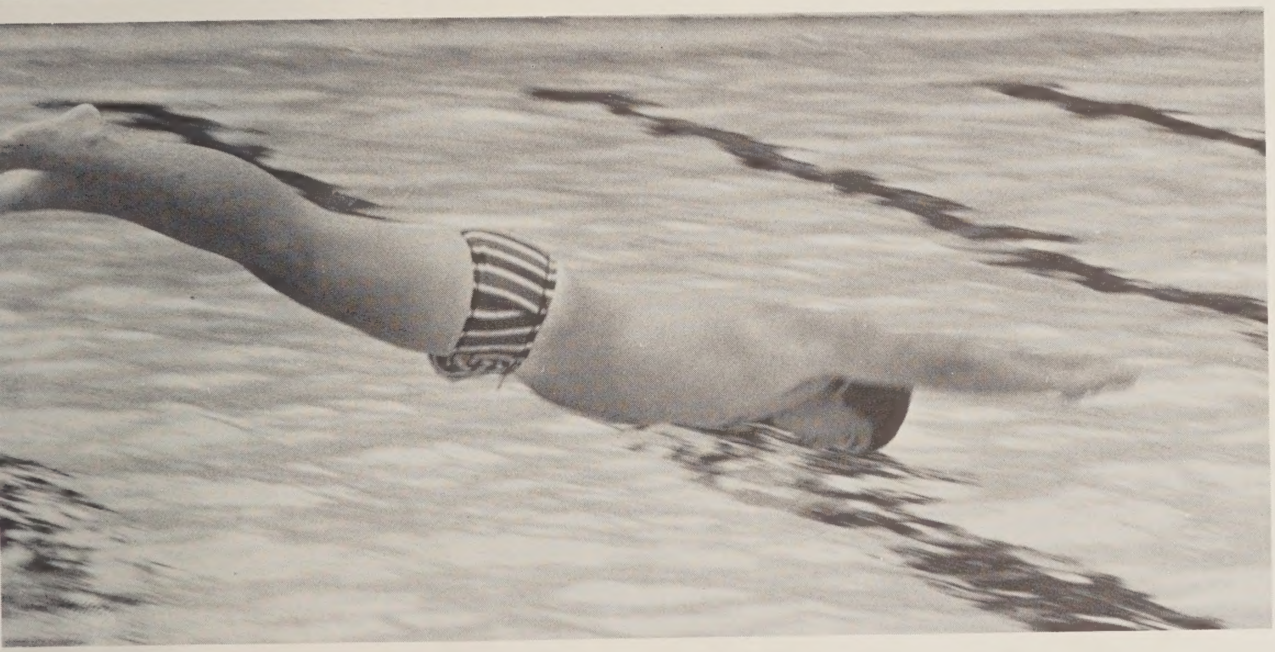
Flying Bobs

It is the excitement of watching the best in your school challenging the best from other schools. The excitement ranges from the yelling of the packed football stadium to the hushed tension on the golf course.

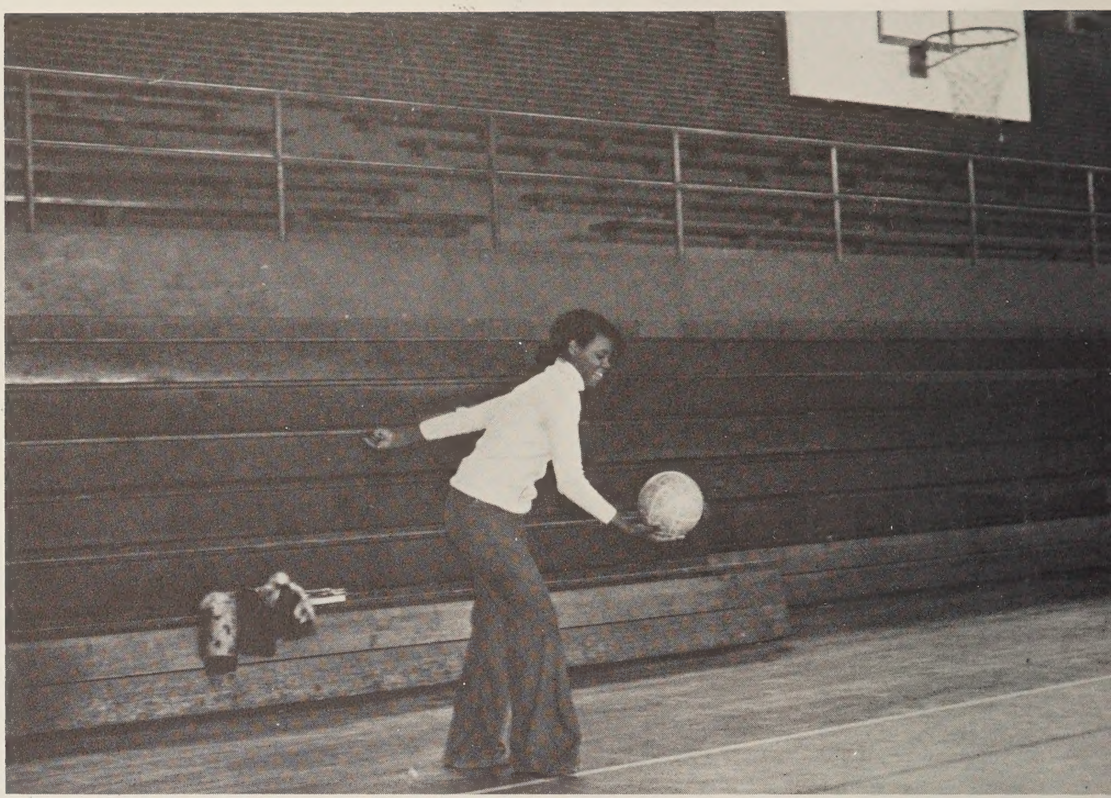


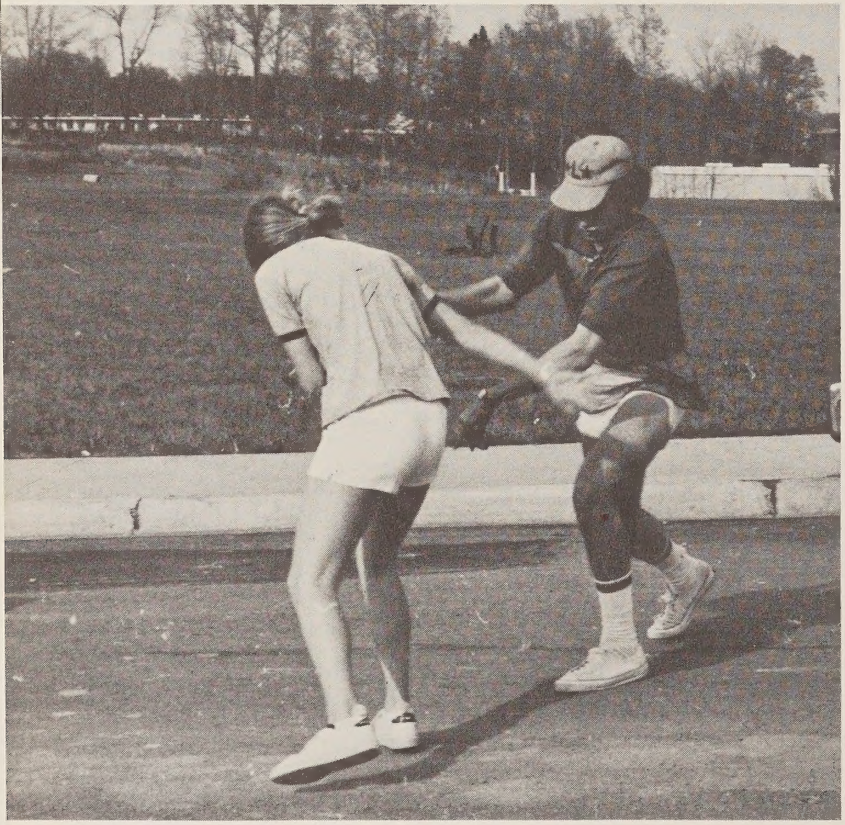


. . . Watching Others Compete . . .



2 5908 00585209 5



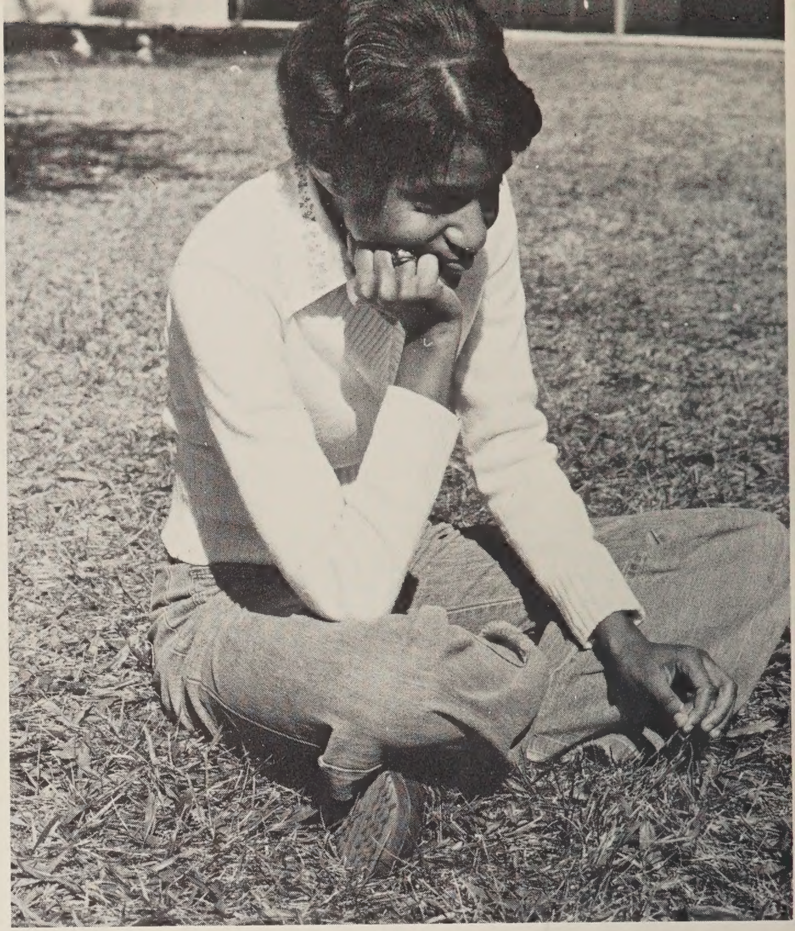


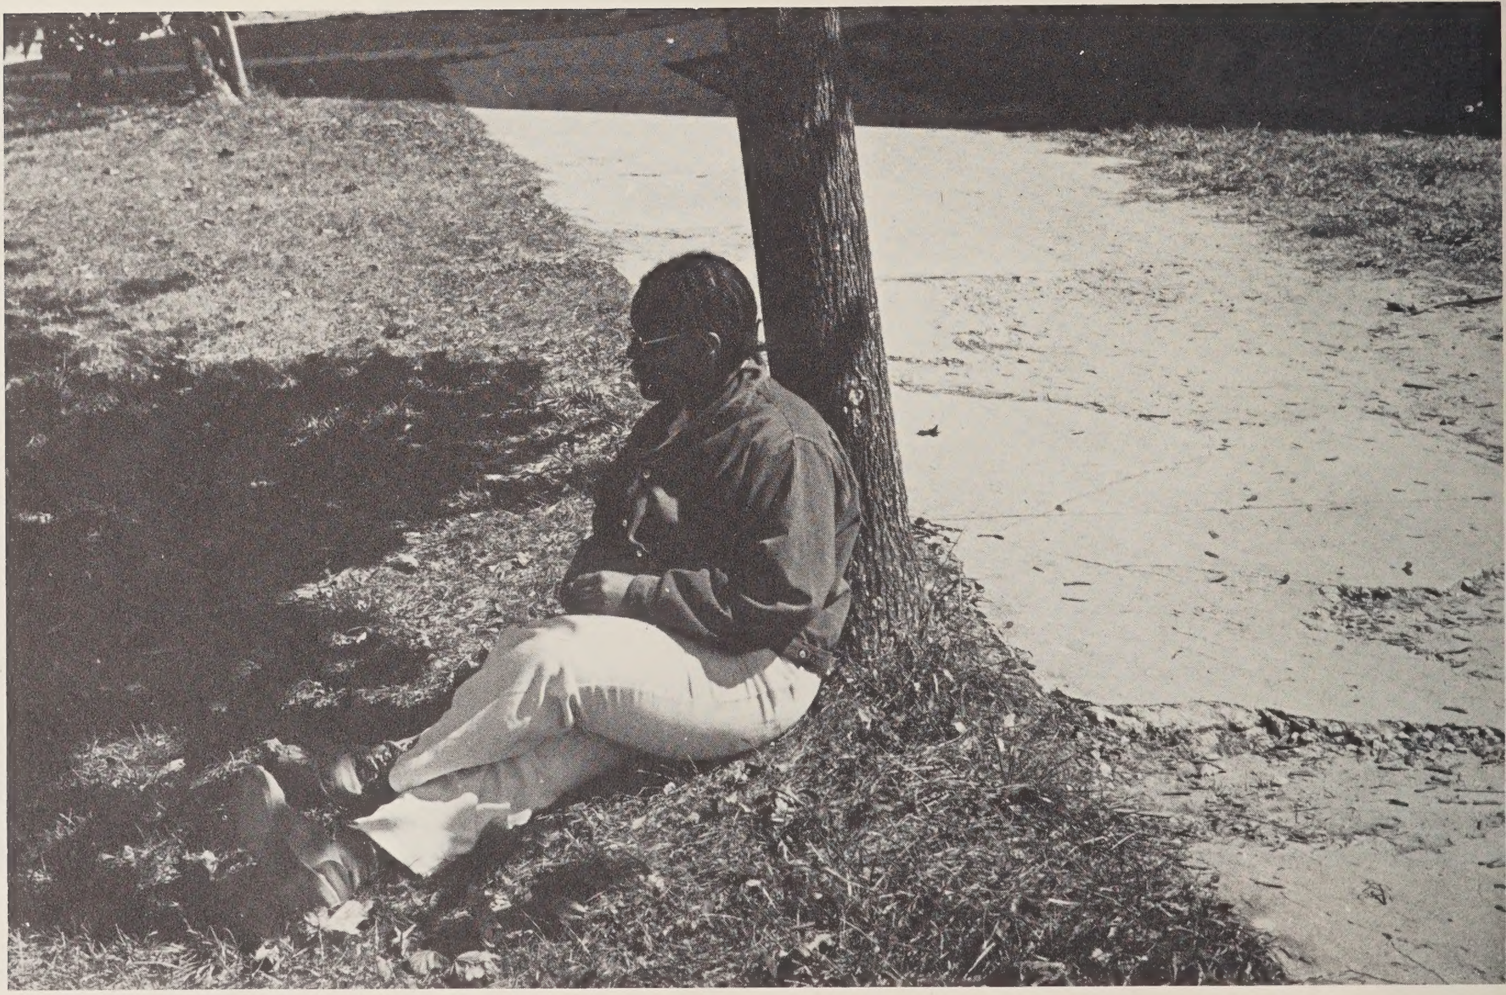
. . . Competing Yourself . . .

You may be competing on the volleyball court serving and spiking. You may be competing on the basketball court driving in for a layup or trying to block a shot. Or you may be competing in courtship in hand-to-hand combat.

. . . Being Alone . . .

There is a time to be alone, a time to think out a problem, a time to remember the past. But there is also a time to be with your friends, a time to celebrate, a time to kid around.





. . . Being with Others.

New Facilities Opened for Student Use This Year

After more than a year of having construction workers fill the halls and having sidewalks turn to mud, the new facilities were completed. The vocational education wing housing the drafting room, shop, and classroom space was opened for the beginning of school. Furnishings delivery and the problem of moving library books from all over the school kept the media center closed until mid-October. But the wait was worth it. Students entering the media center were greeted by upholstered furniture, carpet, and paintings. Student assistants help hang the trimmings and file books. Leigh Leonard does a little "filing" of her own in the library.

THE JOY OF DRAWING

Life

Despite a widely held theory, there is a lot of life around school. Where else could you see 899 of your friends in one day? Only at school can you play around in the bandroom, jive with your friends on the bus, or engage in a fascinating conversation with someone's thumb.

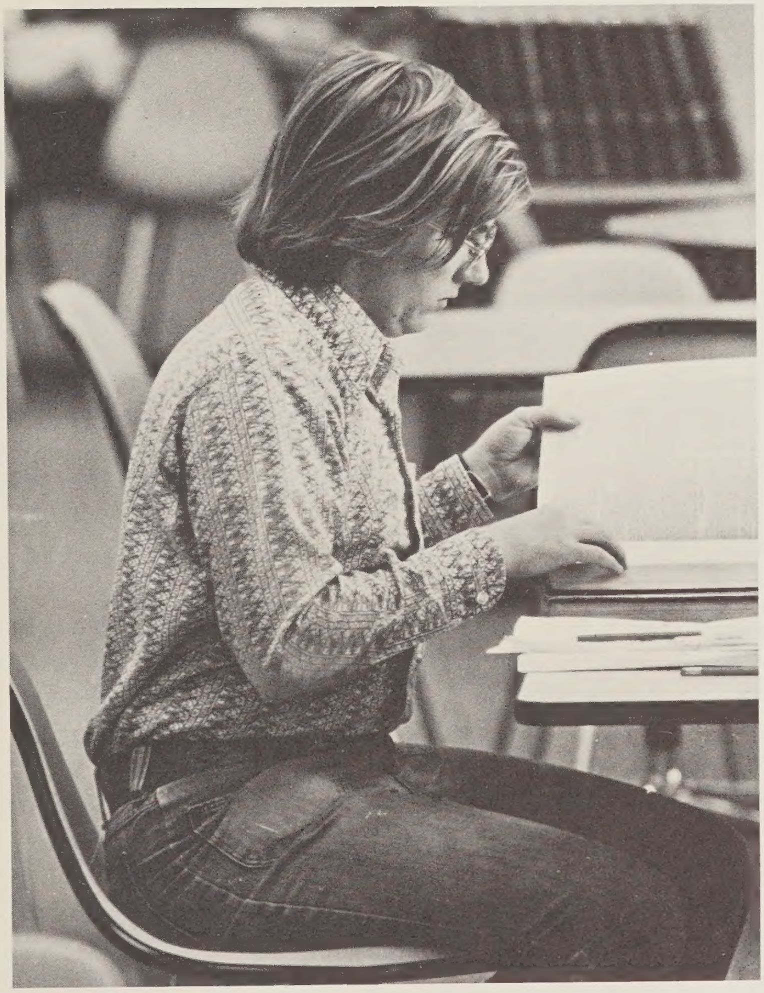
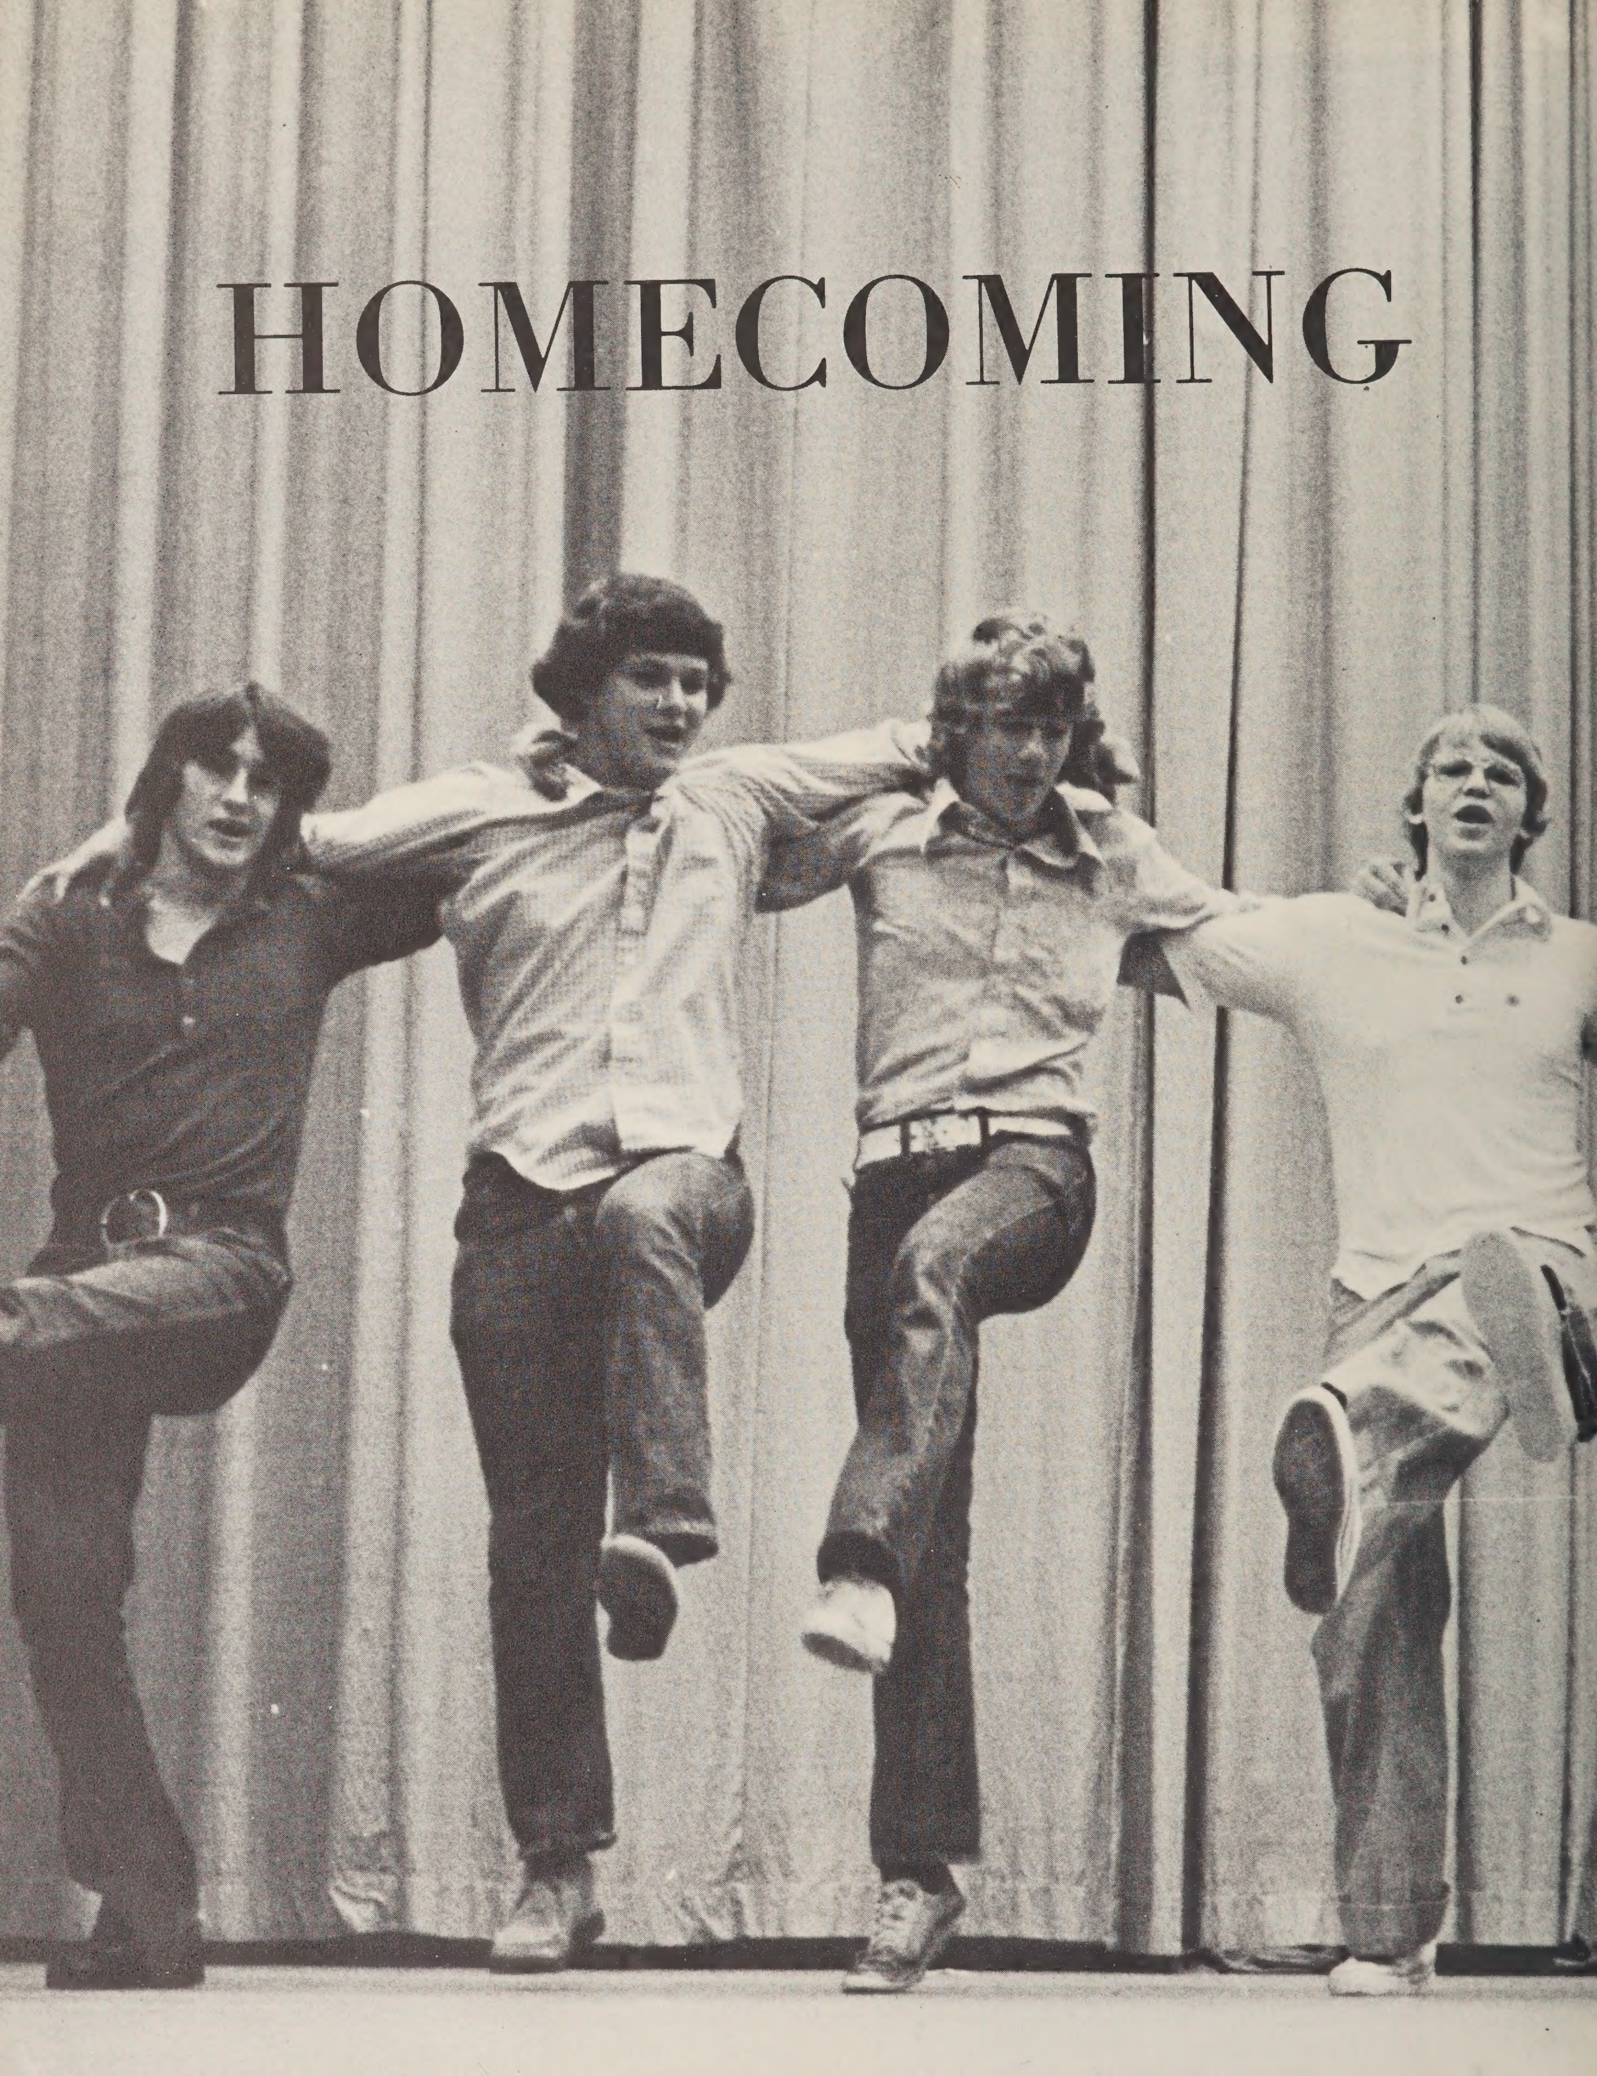
SPEECH IN AMERICAN SOCIETY

Unfortunately, studying is also a part of the life around school and consumes most of the time. The telephone is the only way out; but, comparatively speaking, it is hardly " The next best thing to being there."



HOMECOMING



Every year about the third week in September some pretty weird things start to happen to the students of LSHS that need to be explained. To begin, in no particular order or arrangement, on Player Appreciation Day, the cheerleaders served the players a mid-morning snack. The players appreciated it. Here we see Dicky-do, Loyd, Greg, Bobby, Mike, Paul and Number 80 appreciating it.

During this event-packed week the school many times exercised its freedom to assemble peaceably, as set forth in the First Amendment of the Constitution. Notice Gail Hargrave getting fired up at the events of Lick 'Em Day.

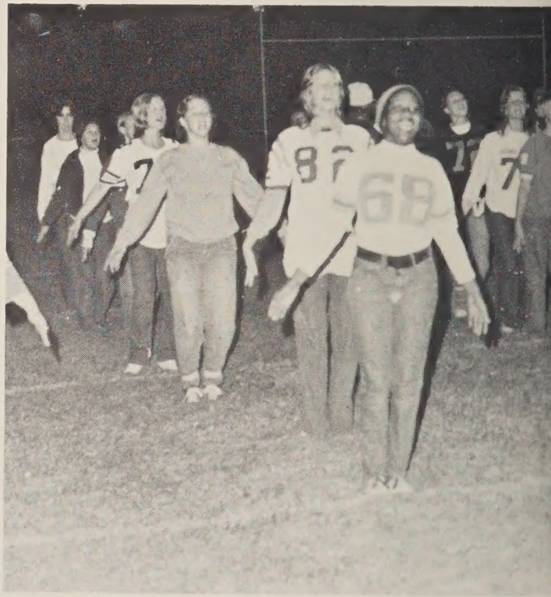
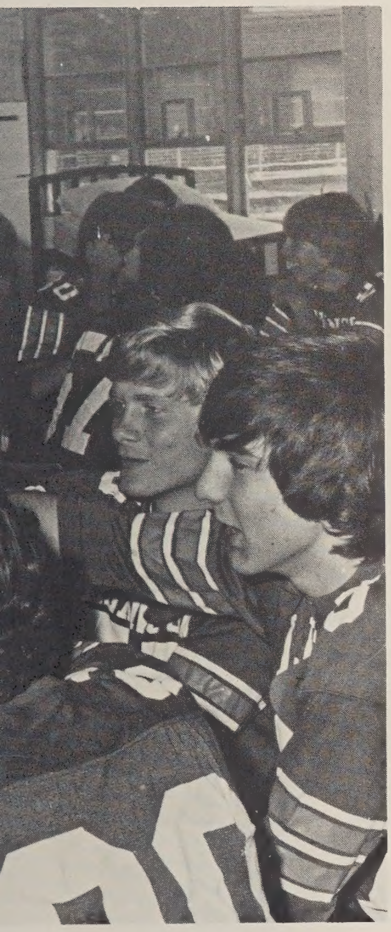
LEX





Zany antics were the order of the week as Homeroom Decoration Day, Tacky Day, Lick 'Em Day and all the other days flashed by in a maze of total confusion. We thrilled to Cindy's rousing rendition of "Marching Through Georgia" and we cringed at Coach William's brilliant change of subject.

Sponsors turned out in droves to witness the Homecoming game debacle. Decked in all their finery are Cynthia and the Doublemint twins, Terri and Betty.

Perspiration broke out in the auditorium, as did class struggles for a Homecoming Week victor. But in the end, as always, the Seniors prevailed, trouncing the Sophomore-Junior team to the tune of 28-14 in the annual Powder Puff game.

Community Activities

Young Seekers, led by Mrs. Ann Spivey, is a group of Senior High students devoted to spreading the word of God through contemporary music. Although performances are restricted mainly to the Lexington area, the group has traveled throughout North Carolina.

Jr. Achievement is a subcommittee of the Lexington Chamber of Commerce designed to give students experience in business situations and management principle. Mike Harden has led the group in two projects this year—making jewelry boxes and designing decorative tree ornaments.

Youth Council is a high school affiliate of the Lexington Recreation Dept. Melinda Lowe has led the Council through many useful projects this year. These projects have included a year-round glass drive, a Halloween party given for children from the Jr. Order Home, and a coffee house to provide weekend entertainment.

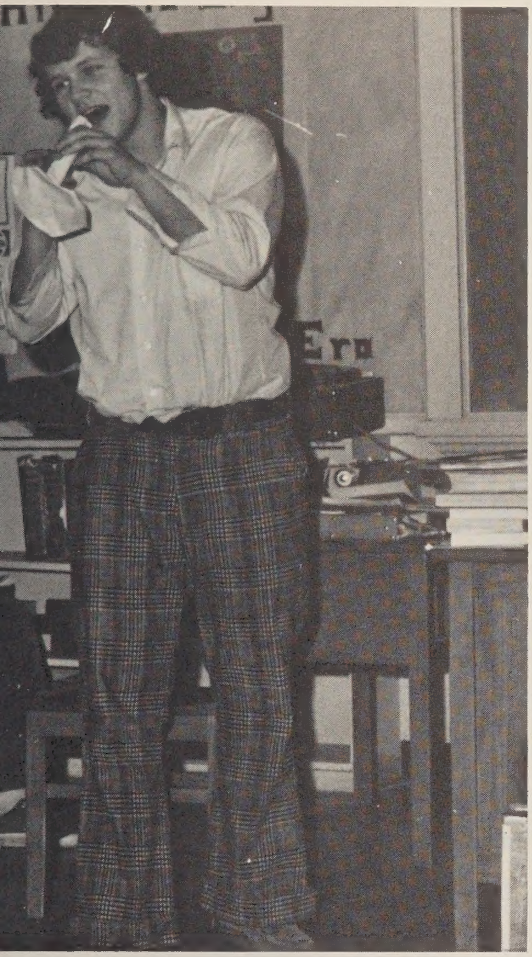
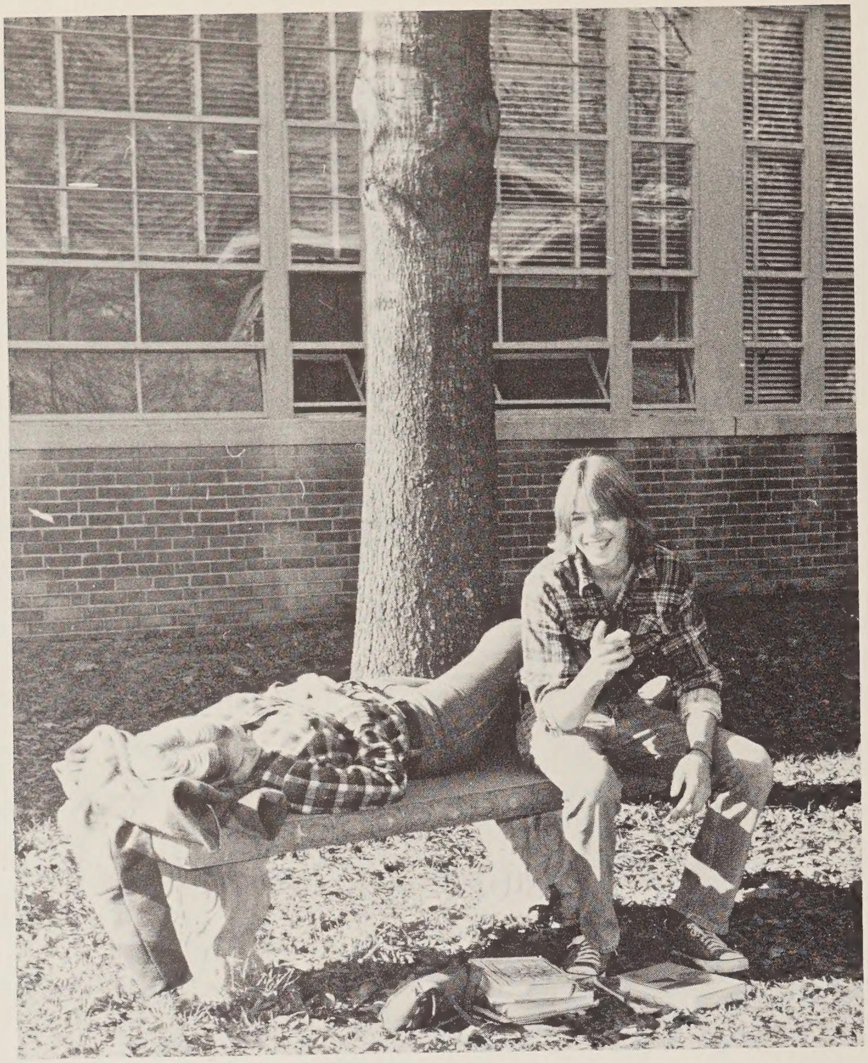
Activities



Many things go on inside the walls of a classroom. They vary from sleeping to wide-awake test-taking. A school day consists not only of hard studying but also of some fun: plays, movies, field trips. A favorite pastime of all students is watching the clock and hoping 3:20 will come soon.



Lunch

What's the best loved period of the day? Right! It's lunch! Whether students eat out, eat in, or just sit under a tree, the time is a welcome relief from classes. This year's extended break between classes gave students time to go to their lockers or smoke a cigarette without having to hurry.

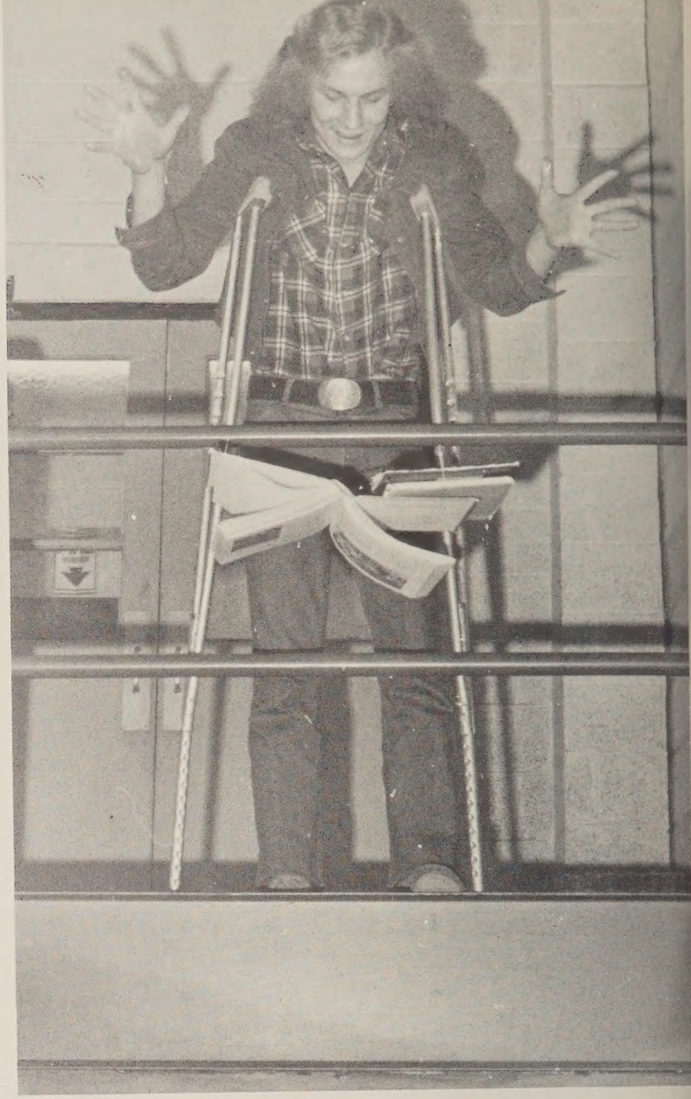
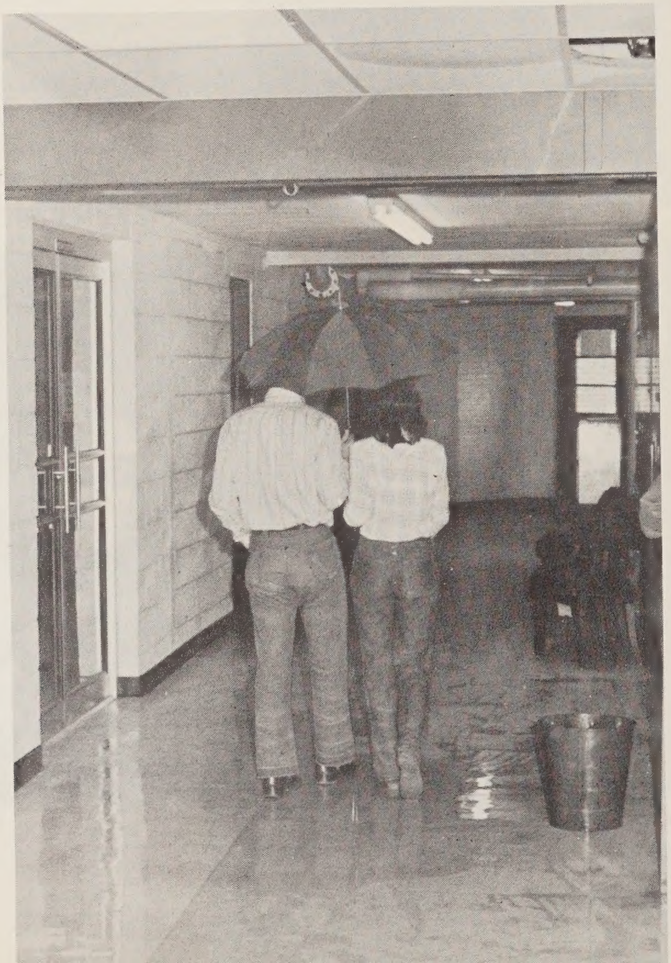
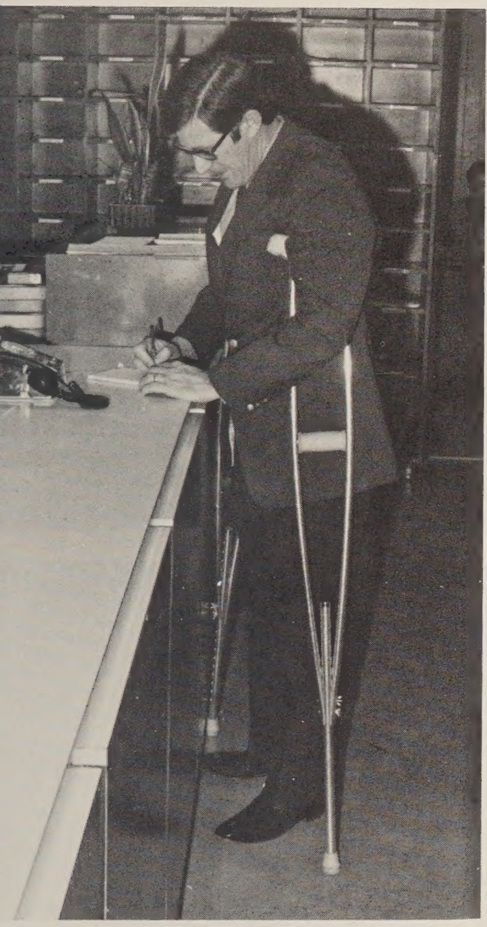
There is more to a play than meets the eye. Long hours of set construction are required. Note the careful alignment of windows and doors. Careful fitting was required to make the doors creak.



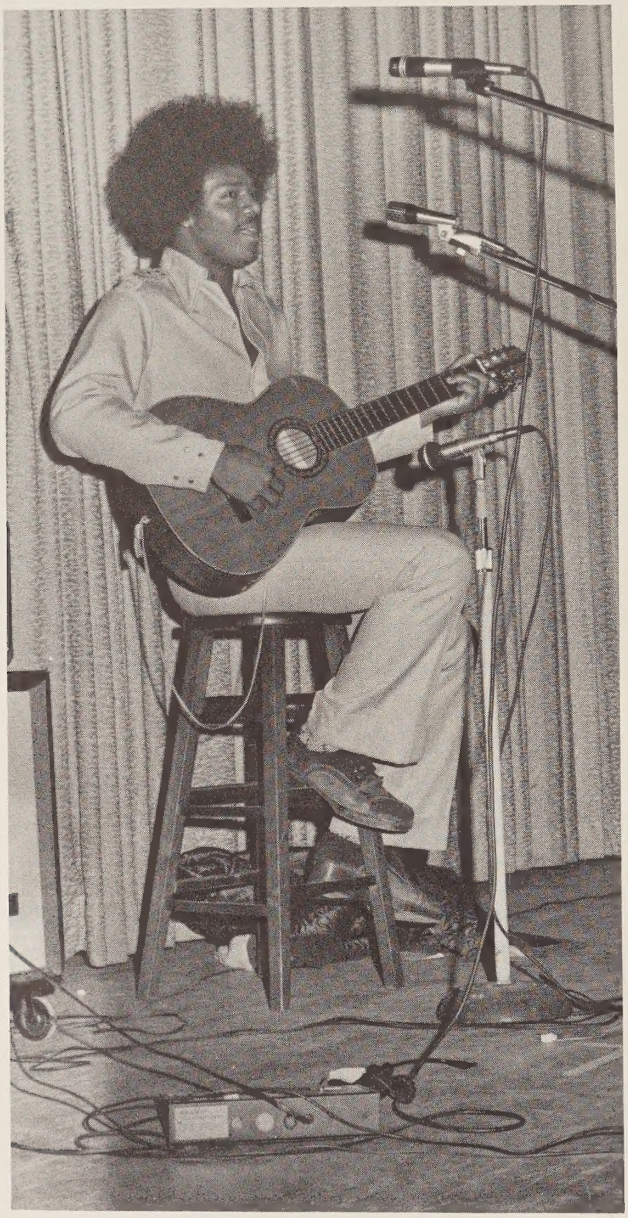




Mishaps

Some of the most memorable events of the year were slightly on the negative side. Crutches replaced streaking as a fad among both students and faculty. Mr. Rhodes did his part to save fuel (at the expense of student comfort). Lynn Johnson OD'ed on French fondue. Two USO's (Unidentified Strolling Objects) took the necessary precautions while wandering from "the halls of the Guidance office to the shores of the Media Center." In the photography darkroom in the Media Center, many mishaps occurred, some of which involved photography.

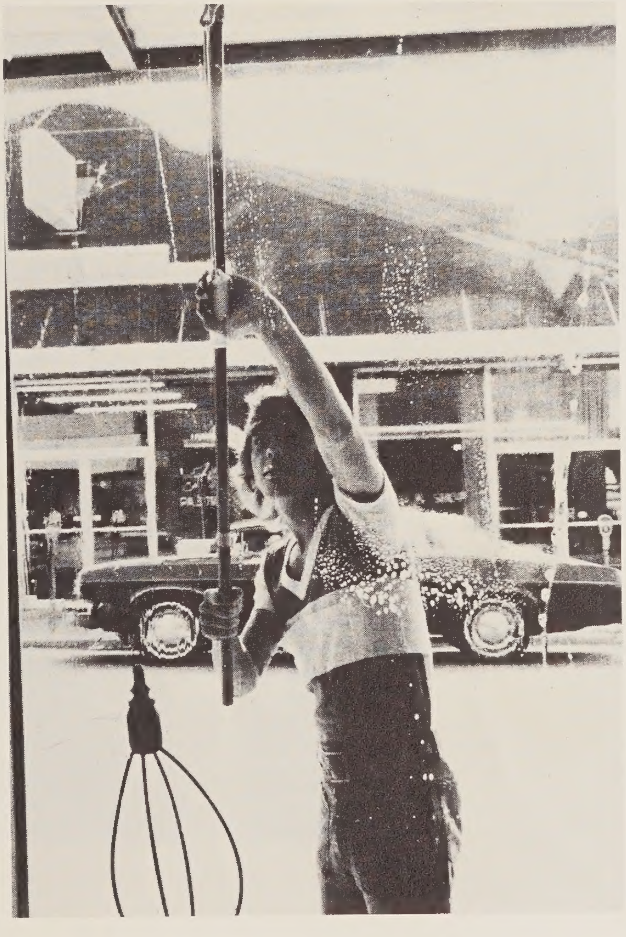
Assemblies

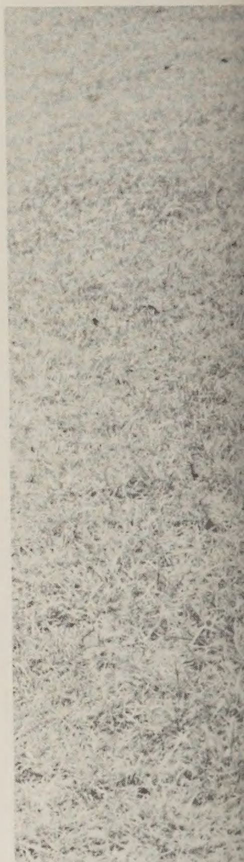


Fall term assemblies provided a variety of experiences for students. The humorous yet moving moments of the National Honor Society induction and the witty remarks of humorist Grady Nutt proved both entertaining and enlightening. The Fine Arts assembly presented the scope of talent in LSHS while the band and Lex-Hi Singers, as usual, made us proud of their musical accomplishments. Sports assemblies, pep rallies, foreign exchange reports, and other speakers added to these gave us a rather full schedule.

Week-ends, as many will agree, are a time to recuperate from the monotony of teachers, classes, and homework. A frivolous sock-hop, a friendly game of monopoloy, or anything to pass the time can release the wound-up energy stored during the week. But no matter what students do, the week-ends never seem long enough.

Week-ends





EMERGENCY

Christmas

is the season to . . .

The Christmas season brought sparks of spirit to LSHS. The Media Center erected a beautiful Christmas tree to boost Christmas cheer. Steve earned his Christmas pennies while at the same time Carolyn and Ashley worked on spending theirs. French Club carolers brought out the song books in order to help spread good cheer. Everyone knows that the Christmas season would not be complete without Mrs. Raper telling Santa to bring her some nuts, fruit, and cigarettes.

Intramurals

The volleyball and basketball intramurals provided the students with a break from their fourth period class. These competitions allowed them to display their spirit and skill. Everybody who participated, winners and losers, will agree that the games were both exciting and fun.

Even the small guy can win! That's the philosophy that arrived in Lexington with new Head Coach Don Maphis. Supported by returning coaches, Coach Maphis injected the Jackets with enthusiasm and determination. Here our staff watches them demonstrate their ability and spirit! Athletic Director Carroll Bowen handling the "outside the stadium" tasks, Coach Maphis relieving his tension with his chewing tobacco, Coach King cheerleading, and Coaches Lamoureaux and England demonstrating position from the sidelines.

The Yellow Jackets played all their games with great enthusiasm and determination. Using the veer offense, they had the option of running off-tackle plays, quarterback-keeps, or wide pitch-outs, not to mention the aerial attack. Determination and spirit made the defensive team play good hard football.

The Yellow Jackets' representative on the All-South Piedmont Conference team were Wayne Dalton and Rick Sommers with Rick being selected as the player of the year in the S.P.C. Rick was also selected for the All-State team.

The sidelines provide a place for rest and any minor patching up which needs to be done. Chip finds time to get a drink of water and Moochie gets some attention from the trainers, Ed Leonard and Mike Fowler. However, it also is a place of concern. Rick and Joe concentrate on the action in the game. Although the players on the sidelines are not in the game physically, they have to be in the game mentally. Therefore, it is inevitable that with a team like the Jackets a smashing 34-0 victory will produce some unique effects. Odell Albright displays his joy by streaking through the locker room after the game while others account for their win by clinched fists. There are others like Mike Myers, whose face has the illustrious look of disbelief.

The Jacket Cheerleaders for the 74-75 school year were a group of highly talented girls. Led by Cindy Martin, their always "spirited" chief, (ooga-booga), the girls supported the Yellow Jacket football and basketball teams faithfully. They displayed highly diversified talents ranging from Lea Jackson's ability to be the "Queen of the Hive" to Pam Lanning's explanation of how to "get it on!" Loretta Barrett clued us in on what our choice of deodorants should be while Tammy Yarbrough and Edith Tate displayed the correct form for the hip block. Mary Ritchie took one pep rally to explain to us that the louder we got the closer she would get. Cheryl Beck showed showed her favorite pastime by portraying "Dopey", while Debbie Miklich threatened Mark Weaver that there would be "no sugar tonight," if the Jackets didn't obtain a victory. Tiny Tina Thomason and Little Linda Leonard showed that a lot of spirit can be wrapped up in small packages. Without these girls, the Jackets would not have been the spirited ball club that they were.

BOYS BASKETBALL

The 1974-75 boys' basketball team had some big shoes to fill. Graduation struck the Jacket starting lineup hard, taking four out of its five members. Rick Sommers was the lone remainder from last year's lineup and was joined by Brian Clark, Mark Davis, Ben Holmes, and Randy Holmes to round out the starting five. Chip Burkhart and Fred Craven were frequent substitutes, but a lack of depth was a problem. The Jackets had to rely on speed and quickness to provide them with victories.

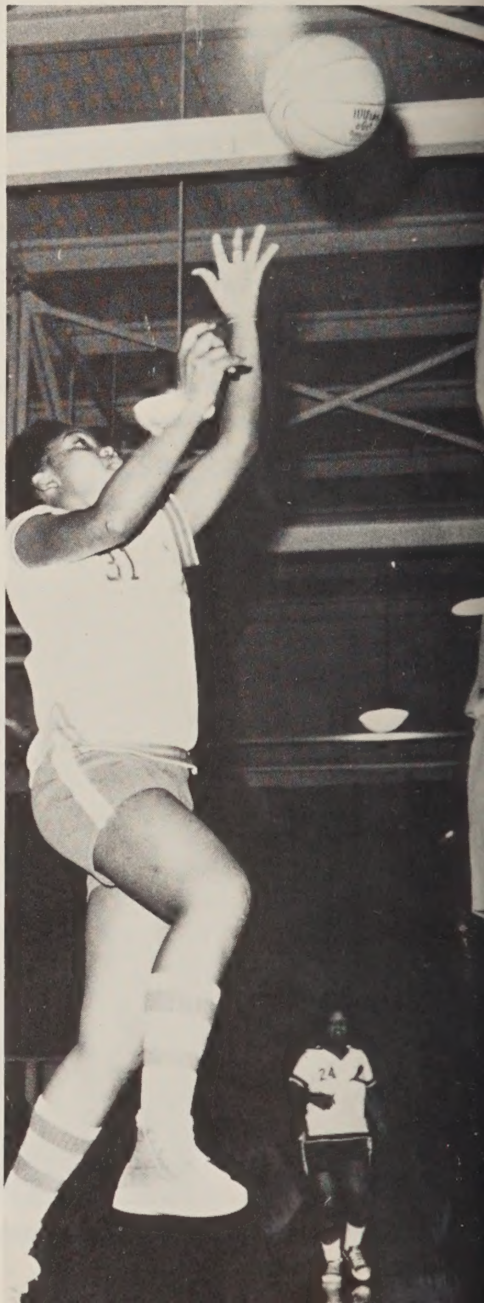
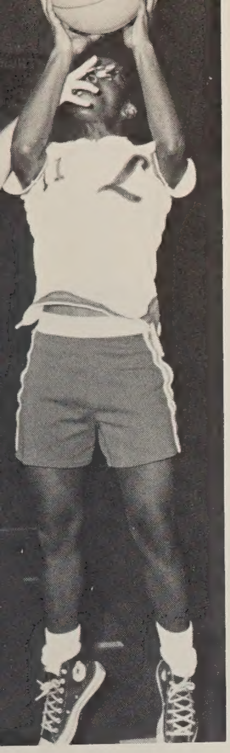
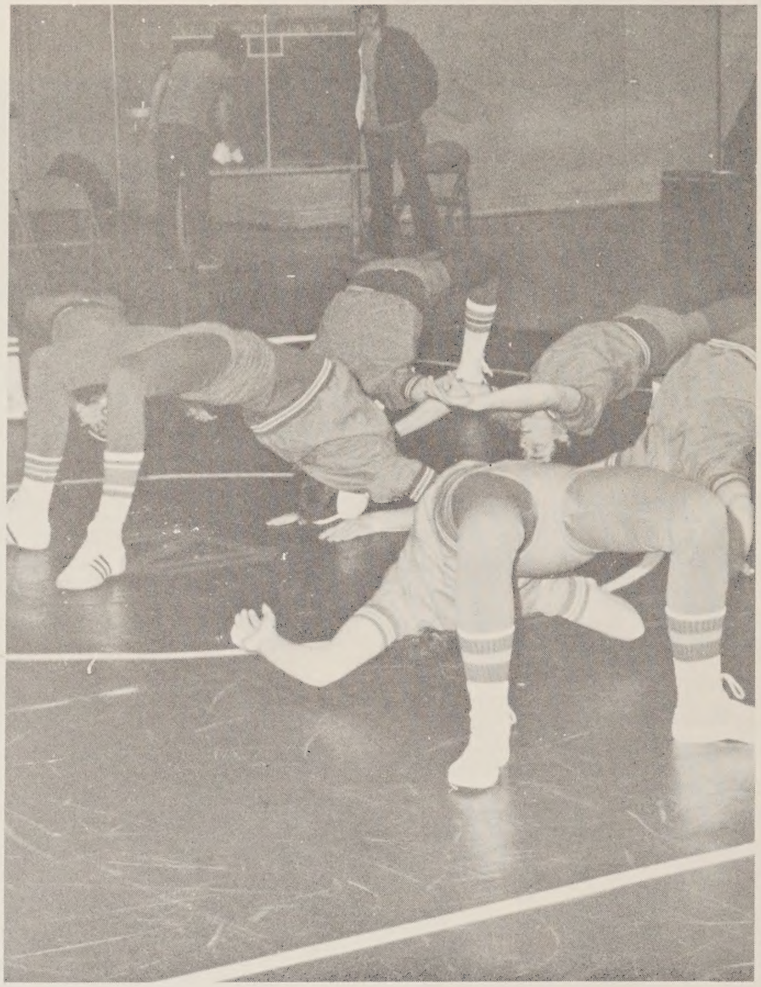
GIRLS BASKETBALL

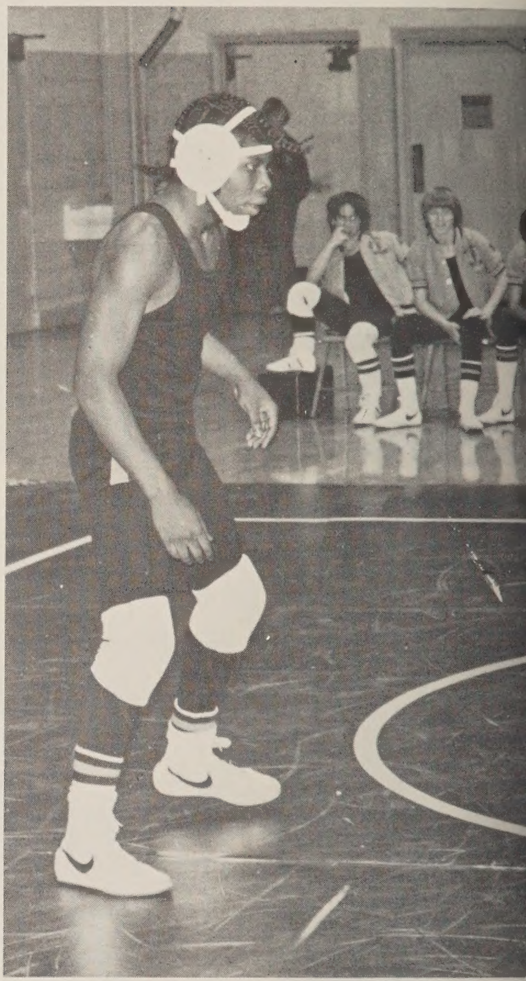
The 1974-1975 Yellow Jacket girls' basketball team finally received reward from their hard hours of practice. After going winless during their first season, they dropped their first game of the 74-75 season, but came back to edge Central in a thriller, 54 to 53. After this game, they dropped their next five before entering a holiday tournament. Although losing the opening game to North Davidson, they came back to trounce Thomasville 72 to 49. This victory did wonders for the girls' confidence, and with players such as Leigh Welborn, Eve Matthews, Charlene Woods, Cynthia Dixon, and others, the girls improved with experience.





Wrestling





The wrestling team had a winning season this year under new leadership, that of Coach Wes Lamoureaux. Their record reflected both the team's hard work and the morale-building support of the student body. As students became interested in wrestling, attendance at the matches showed a great increase over that of past years.

Lexington High School has been fortunate to have the service of Ed Leonard and Mike Fowler as trainers. For the past three years, they have guarded against and treated injuries for players in football, basketball, and wrestling. Both have had enough training and experience to go on into college assignments. All teams have appreciated their skill and concern, and everyone has laughed at their humor.

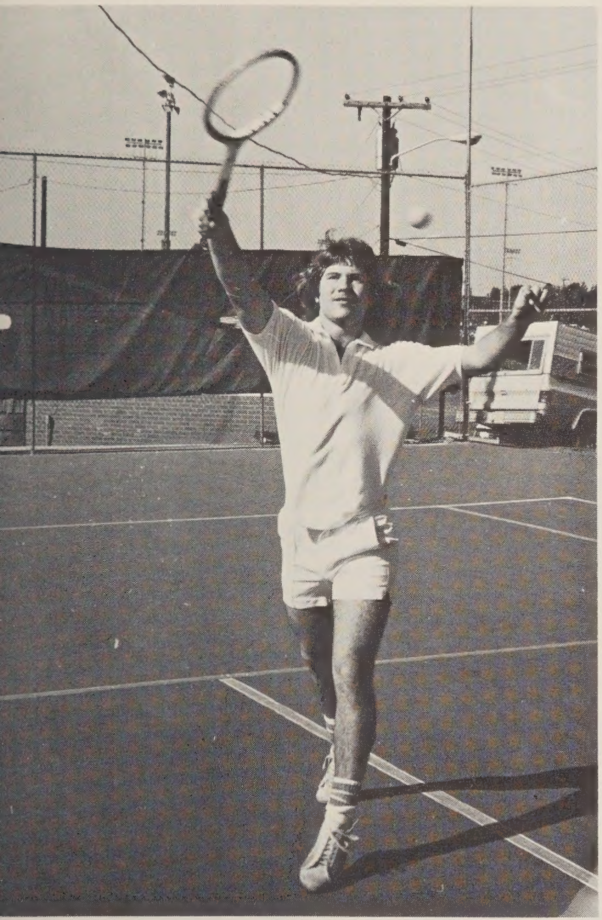
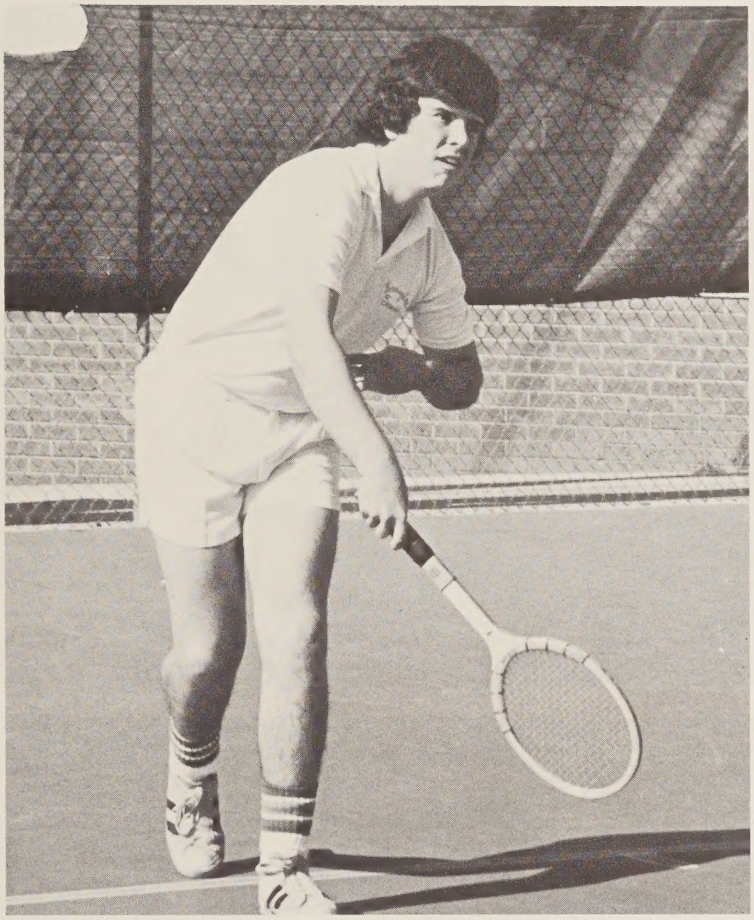
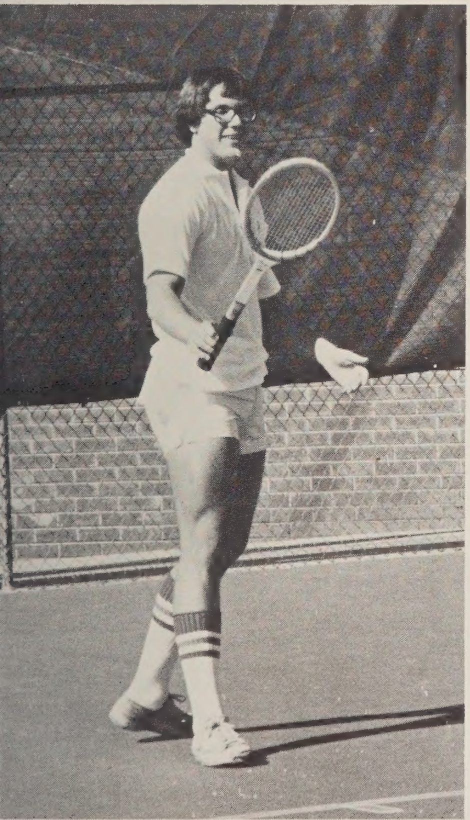
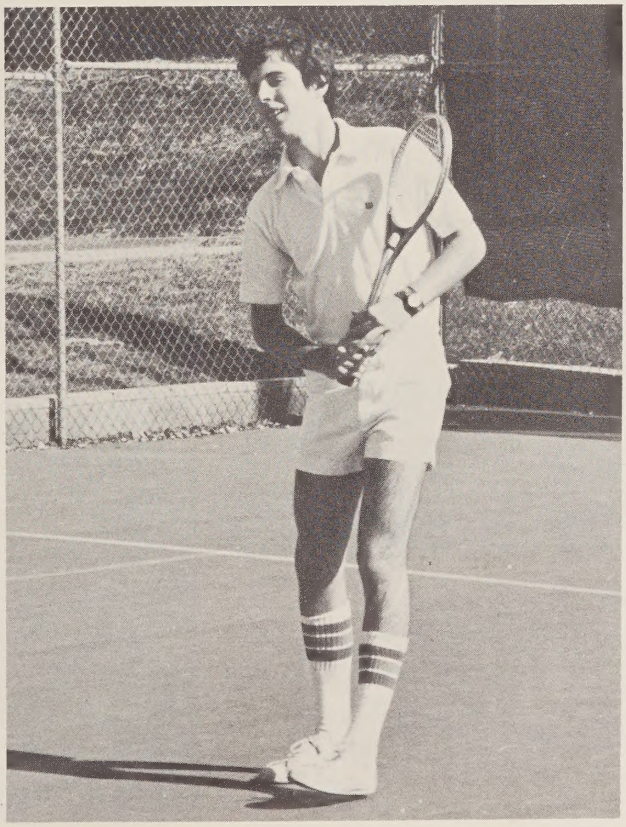
Tennis Team



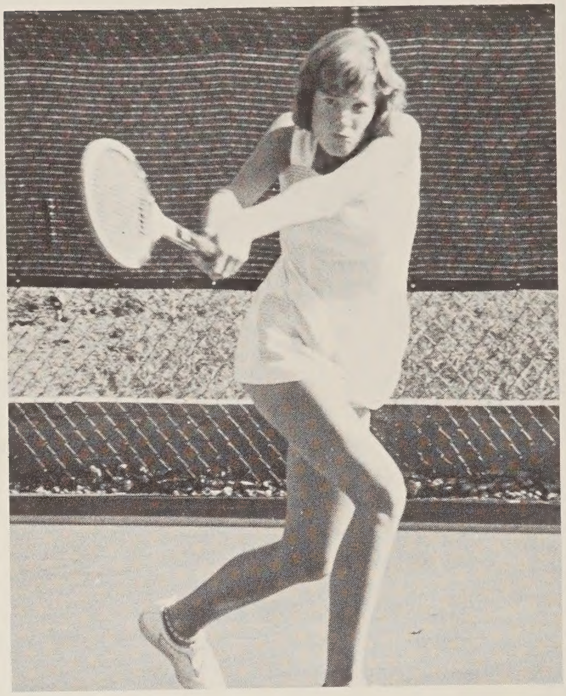


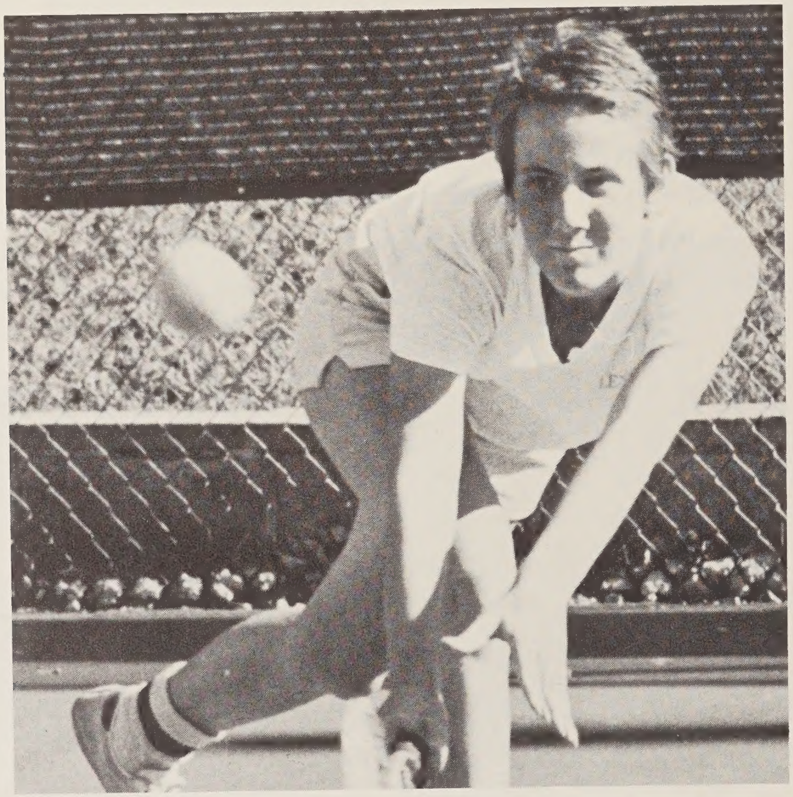




With the loss of only one out of the top six, the Jacket netters for 1975 looked good. Rick Sommers, Joe Phillips, and Bill Fritts were leaders in fulfilling the Jacket's tough schedule. However, in order to get ready for the season, long practices and a lot of work were necessary. The experienced group of Jacket netters proved to be steady performers.

Girl's Tennis





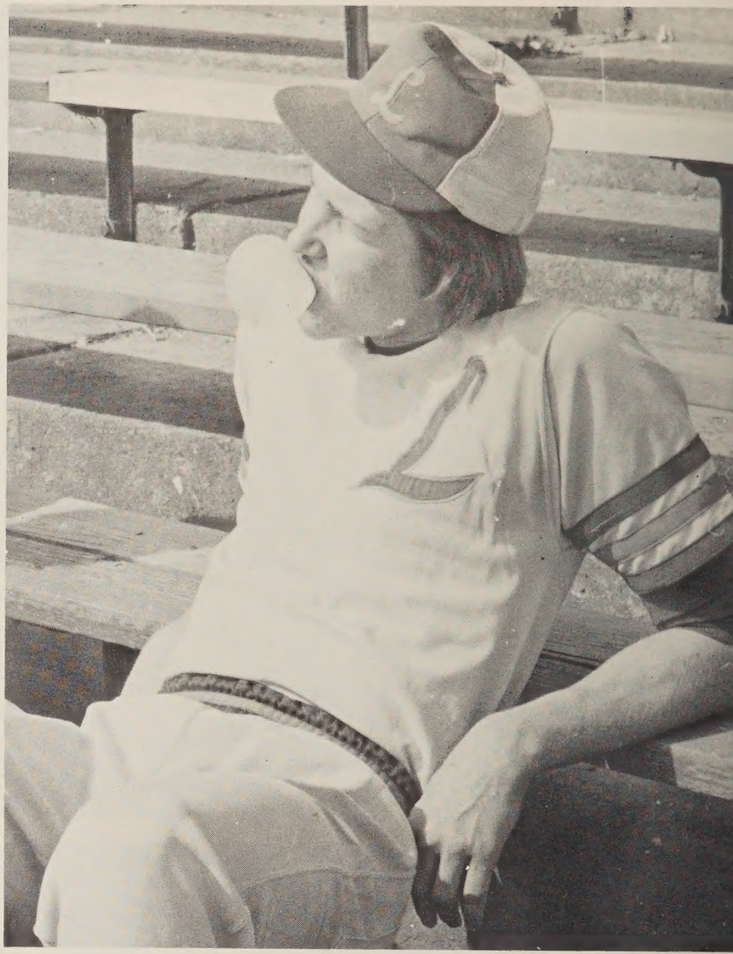
The Yellow Jacket girls' tennis team lost four out of their top six players but had a good, balanced team. Leigh Welborn and Downy Hargrave led the lady netters. Other returning lettermen included Cindy Martin, Sandy Coles, V. V. Hartzog, and Karen Grogen. The girls were determined and played well.

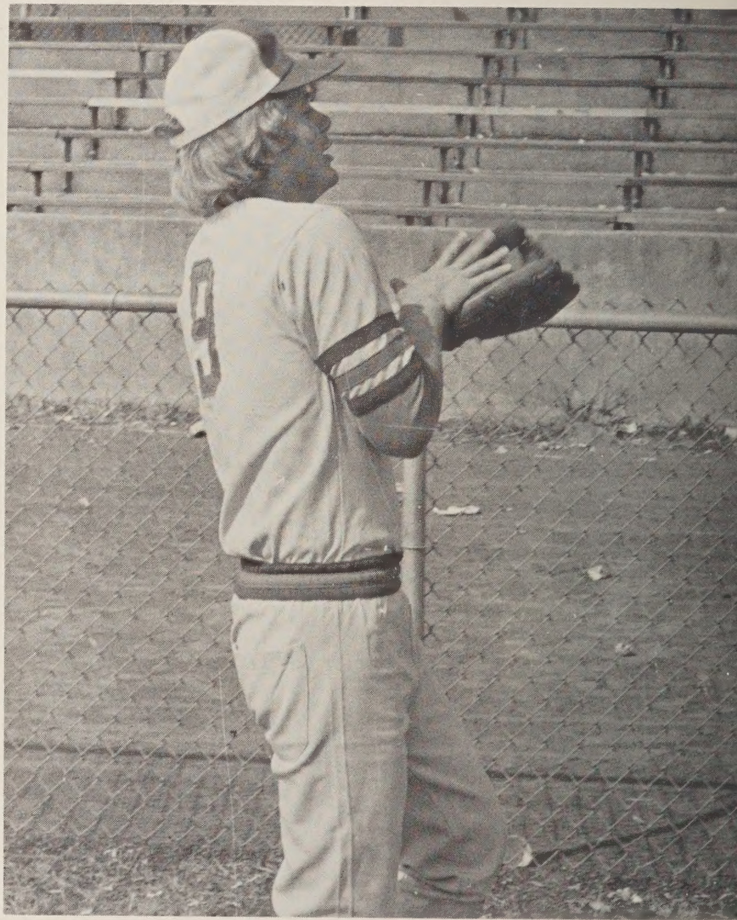
Golf

The Lexington Senior High golf team consisted of many experienced players. Hugo Crigler played in the number one spot. He has been medalist in several matches and has been an All-Conference performer in both his sophomore and junior year. Other returning lettermen were Jimmy Phillips, Frankie Nance, Jay Lopp, Ricky Potts, and Tom Matthews.

Baseball

The Lexington Yellow Jacket baseball team featured Mark Davis whose pitching finesse is enhanced by his bubble gum blowing. Among returning lettermen backing him up were Brian Clark, who will be playing shortstop, Tim Clodfelter, Tim McCarn, Chip Burkhart, and Mike Fowler.





Track

The Lexington Yellow Jacket track team had some very talented returning lettermen. Both Robert Brown and Johnny Walser showed good speed in several different running events including the 100 yard dash. They consistently placed high in the Jacket's meets. Sam Mietling placed high in the two mile run. Scott Ragan participated in both running events and the high jump. Carl Blackburn ran the hurdles for the Jackets. These and other returning lettermen were the nucleus of a fine team.

Two days a month, excluding January, shortened morning periods allow students to become involved in clubs of their interest. Starting last year the administration adopted a new policy toward clubs creating special interest groups: checker champs, solitaire club, harmonica club, flying club, etc. Student response was very favorable, for those students who did not wish to join a club involved in civic activities or related to a foreign language had a place to go and something to do. Of course, there were always the civic and foreign language clubs for those interested in that line, too.

Clubs such as the Future Homemakers of America, Future Business Leaders of America, and Future Nurses of America help prepare students for meeting tomorrow's challenges, while the DECA and VICA clubs provide training experience and jobs for today. These clubs provide practical students with practical information and experience.

For those less practical students interested in the arts, the clubs provided them with a good selection of interests. The Crafts Club focused on handcraft and sculpture. Various artists-in-residence came to share their talent. The Drama Club catered to the theatre arts. The Forensic Union provided dramatic interlocution (or circumlocution as the case may be). The Record and Tape Club offered music appreciation to those who just wanted to bump.

Increased insight into a foreign culture by exposure to the language, customs, food, and films is the accomplishment of the French and Spanish Clubs. Cultural exchange is provided by the AFS, who this year sponsored two foreign exchange students: Torstein Brimset from Norway, and Solli Faili from Iran. There was rumor of forming a German Club for those students who like to hear Mr. Cranford tell jokes in his German accent, but the plan never materialized. Some exciting highlights were Miss Slate's stories about French lovers, and Mr. Allen's explanation of Spanish Fly.

(Editor's note: Despite popular rumor, I did not pass out on the donating table, just a little dizzy. Chester). The Jr. Civitans sold fruitcakes to all the fruitcakes and fruitcake lovers. The Key Club and Keyettes each summer send a child to Camp Easter in the Pines. The Keyettes sponsored the Send A Mouse to College campaign for the American Cancer Association.

Organizational Activities

If you ever wondered who really runs the school, a good guess is the student council. They run the school store and concession stand at least. The morning news and announcements is sponsored every weekday morning by the same, and the student body gets a fair shake because of the representation on the administrative level provided by the executive student council.

Drink Coca-Cola in bottles

The National Honor Society sponsored the HI IQ Bowl team in the intercity competition. The NHS also experimented with a tutoring program to help those who needed it. The Fine Arts Society gave a star-studded (?) assembly of musical talent. The band, besides entertaining at football and basketball games, held an auction to underwrite their expenses and produced two All State band members.

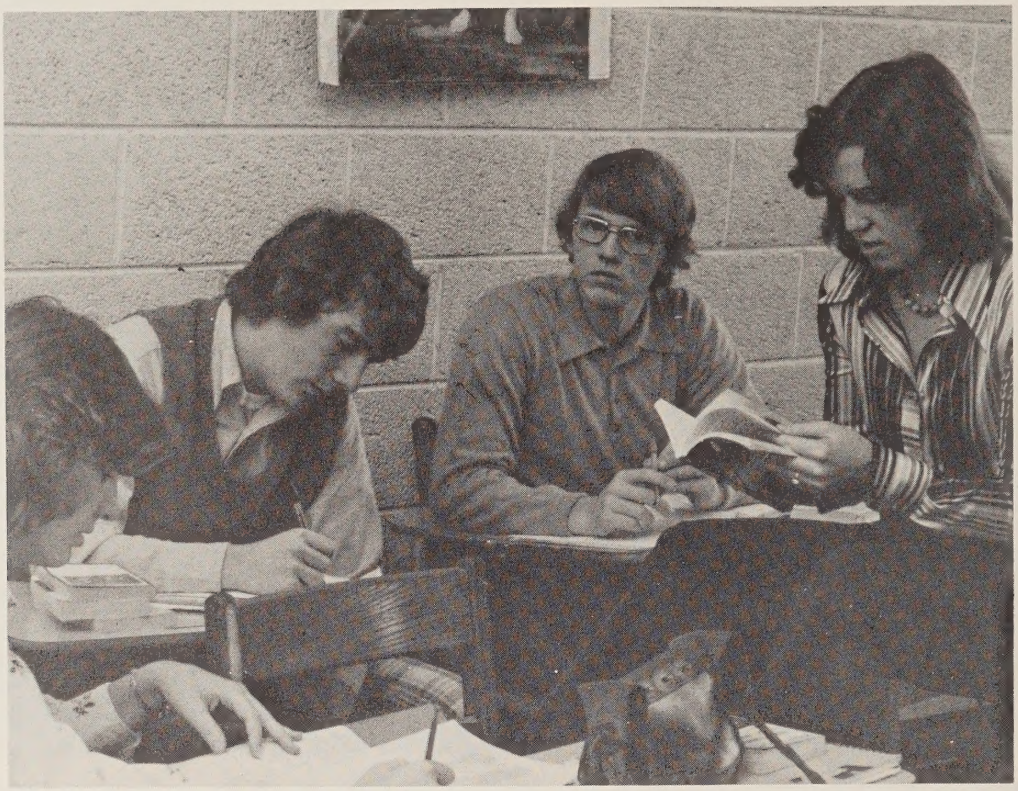
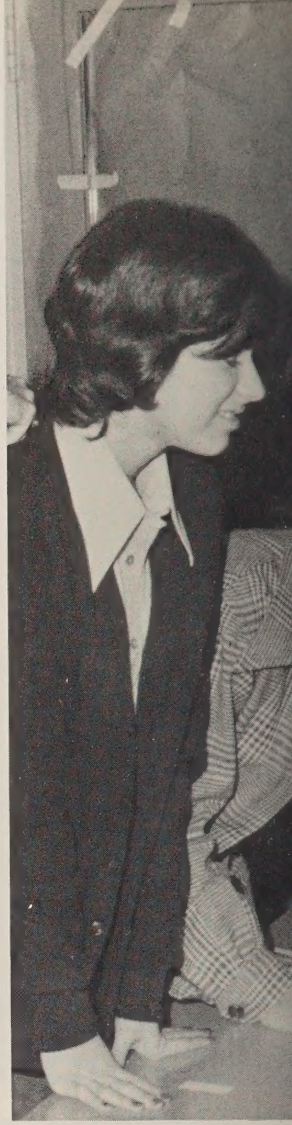
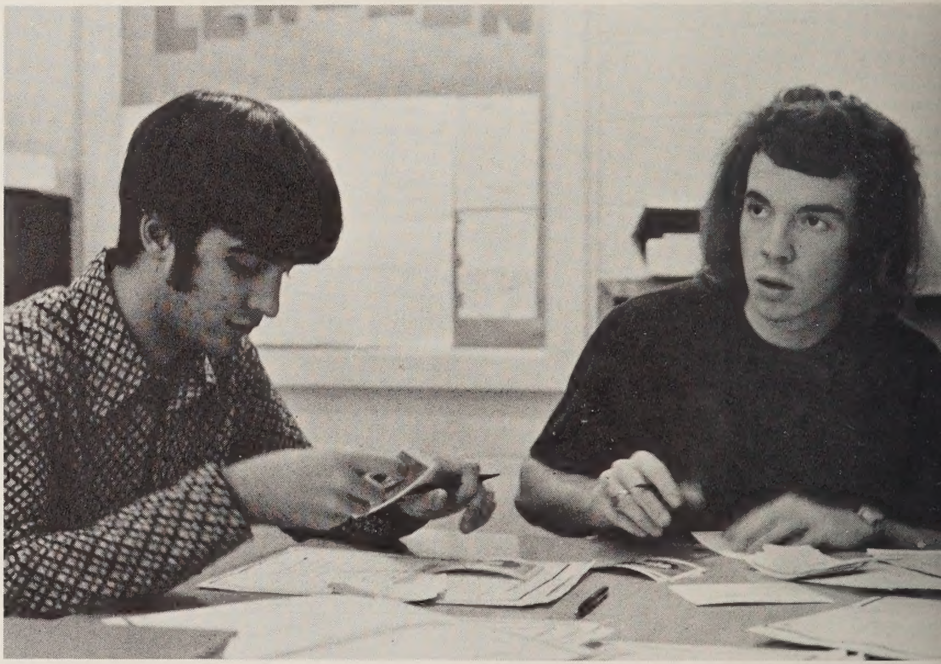
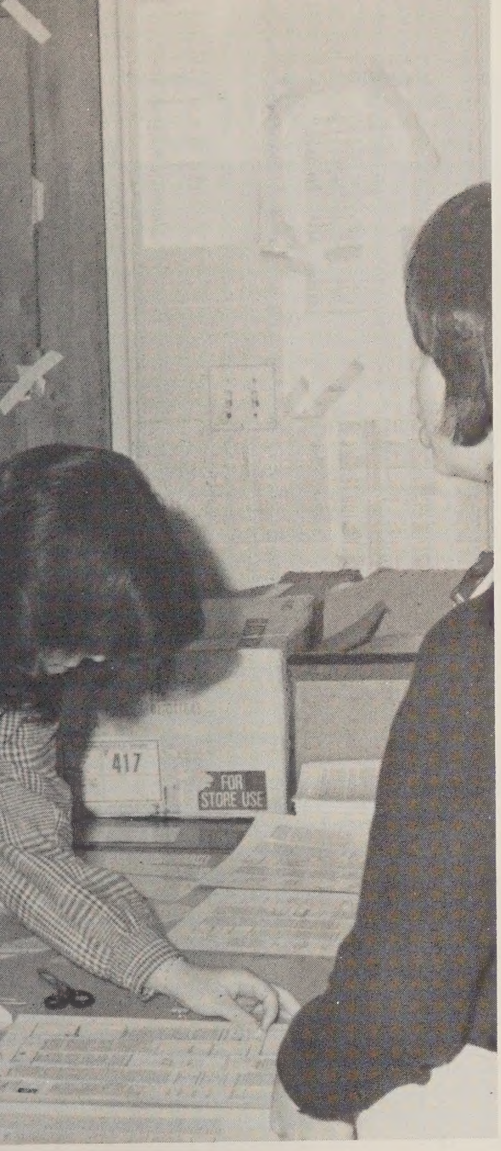
Lexicon—Lexhilit—Lexhipep

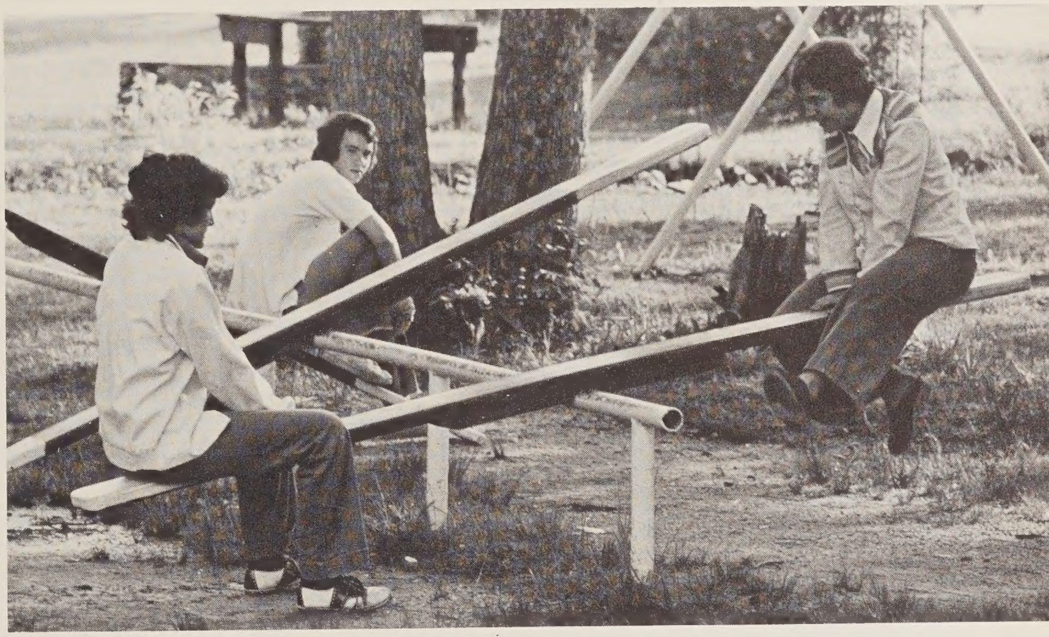








It is a common notion that journalism staff members have 180 hours of free time. However, both staffs spend many hours preparing to present LSHS with quality publications. The newspaper staff worked on interviews—inside, outside, and behind the scene. The quality of the newspaper improved tremendously under the new sponsorship of Mr. Harold Cranford. The annual staff attended a summer workshop in Burlington to learn about congruent layout design, picture coordination, and copy standards. Applying these principles to your 1975 annual required time and patience, but hopefully the book justifies both. LEXHILIT staff members read dozens of student written stories, poems, and essays and examined many pieces of art work. Their selection and publication, as usual, represent a good sample of student creativity.



THE GREAT GATSBY

The 1973-74 school year ended with the Junior-Senior prom and graduation.

Jay Gatsby himself would have been impressed with the nostalgic atmosphere created by Mrs. Lewis and the Junior class. More than earlier proms, (we think), it was a dazzling success. Students mingled, enjoyed refreshments while some teachers "danced the night away."

The final highlight of the 1974 senior class was graduation. A few cried, some cheered, but most were apathetic. With the departure of the Class of '74, the Class of '75, represented by its cunning marshals, anxiously anticipated their senior year.

Sophomore Class

Class Officers

The class of '77 exploded on the scene of Lexington Senior High with vigor and enthusiasm. This excitement was short lived, however, as the youngsters soon discovered the many problems that can beset a high school sophomore. But for those who made it through the year, kiddie camp, homecoming week, and cleaning up for the Jr.-Sr. will not soon be forgotten.

The responsibility of the Junior Class is to sponsor the annual Junior-Senior Prom. In order to raise money for this project, the members of the Junior class are required to work in the concession stands during home football games. Each junior planning to be excused from school to decorate for the prom must work a minimum of two times.

Senior Ambassadors

While most people were enjoying working, sleeping, or wasting the summer away, two Lexington students were traveling around the world and around the state. Randy Holmes went to Argentina this summer as a foreign exchange student. Randy spent an enjoyable summer exchanging customs and traditions and mastering the Spanish language.

Woody Woodruff was our representative to Governor's School and to Boy's State. At Governor's School, Woody's major area of study was natural science. At Boy's State, he participated in a study of government and city planning.

Both students had summers they shall not soon forget.

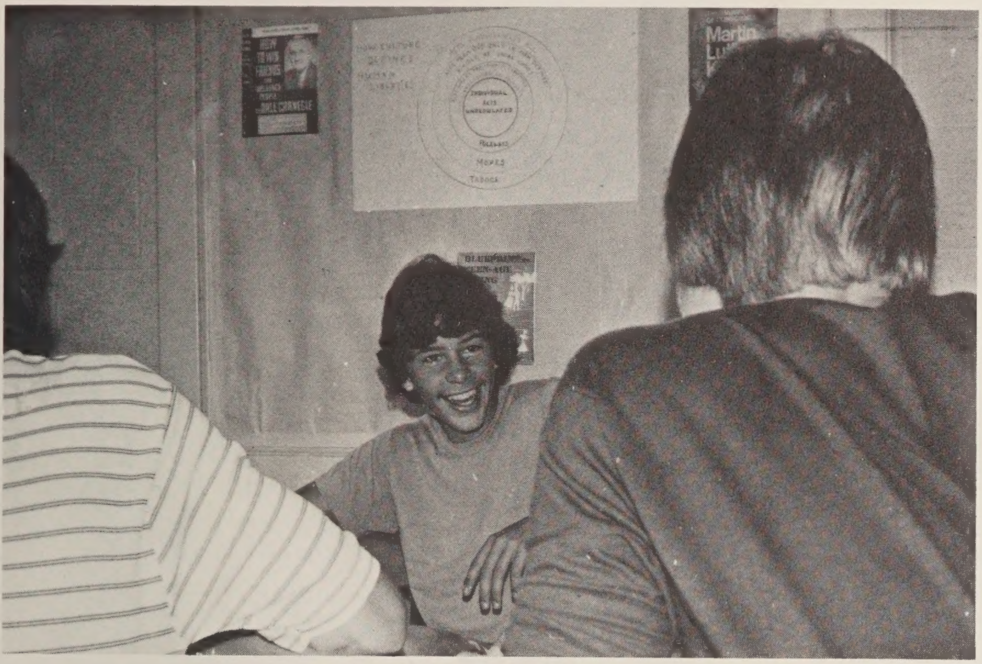
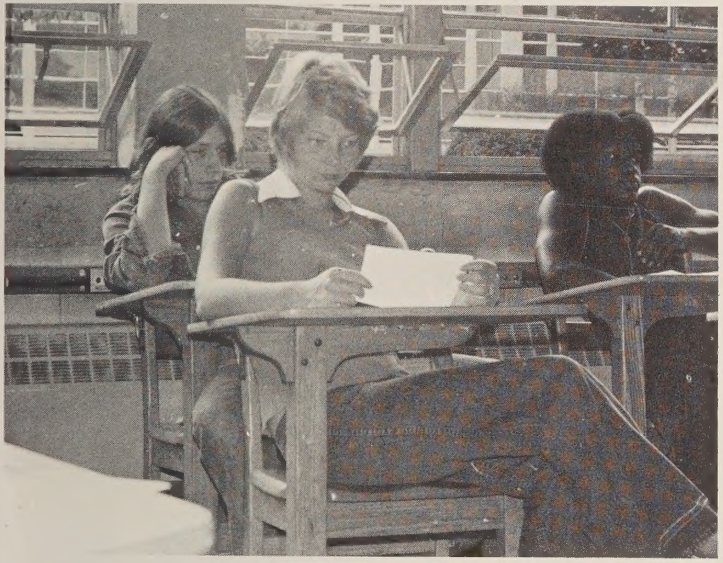
AFS
Students

Lexington was especially fortunate this year in having two foreign exchange students--Sohailla (Solli) Faili of Iran and Torstein Bremset of Norway. Soli spent the year with the Critz Query family, and Torstein stayed with the Carl Ritchie family. We hope this has been a year they will always remember.



Mike laughs at his stale joke.

Hippy Chick takes a stroll.



Oh no, not an F in English.

Oh heck, that is my contact I am writing on.

If I could only get this last nail in.

What, a dent in my car?

Is that the way you are going to wear your hair Friday night?

Louis celebrates his first birthday.

These girls were selected by the Senior class to represent LSHS in the four pageants. Cindy, with much applause, made everyone at the Davidson County Fair proud of her poise. Jeanna was beautiful in the Veteran's Day parade. Linda enjoyed her stay at Charlotte and wore her famous smile in the Thanksgiving Day parade. Natalie as Christmas queen displayed talent, personality, and beauty.

Media Center

When the new media center finally opened, students found that it was well worth waiting for. The new furniture (which is reputed to be the best in the state) and collection of art made it a much more comfortable and enjoyable place to study. In addition, the new resources should make it easier to find the necessary information.

Guidance

The Guidance department survived the usual chaos in the beginning of the year of changing happy students schedules. The guidance counselors helped students with academic as well as personal problems throughout the year.

Physical Education

The P. E. department was busy this year utilizing its new equipment. The new dressing room and multi-purpose room were very useful additions to our school. Gym activities included tennis, archery, bowling, volleyball, and table tennis. Gator ball and soccer were two sports that were added to our athletic activities this year.

Vocational Education

Work experience was offered to LSH students through vocational education. This in-school training included typing, shop, and bookkeeping. Some students were permitted to leave the campus during the afternoon to gain on-the-job experience. This year a new program was instituted in which students could work in the morning and attend school in the afternoon. This program gave girls the opportunity to experience hospital responsibilities and routines. After graduation many students, being well prepared to meet the world outside find that this was a useful addition to their education.

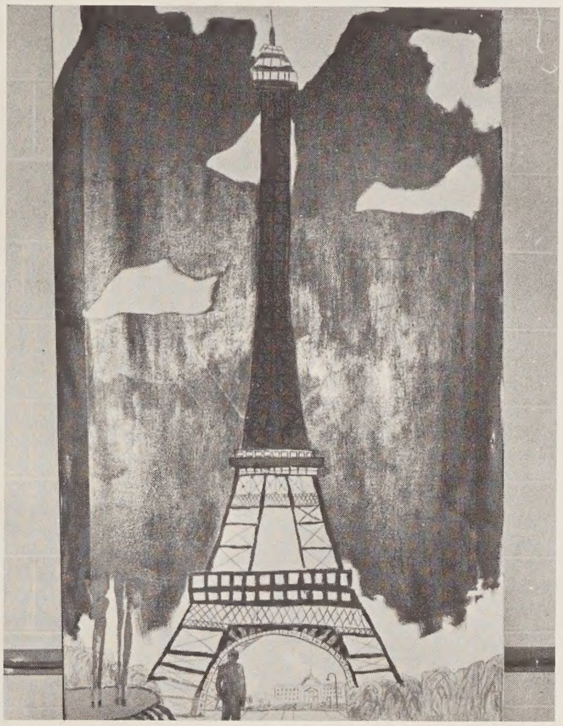
Art
Foreign Language



Foreign language students will have many things to remember from this year: Mark Marley imitating Elvis Presley; a song about some stupid duck; Mr. Allen's singing; skipping around the room to the tune of "Sur le Pont d'Avignon."

Art students learned different methods of drawing, painting, ceramics, and other forms of artistic expression, as well as the history of art. Students received individual attention which helped them to develop artistic abilities.

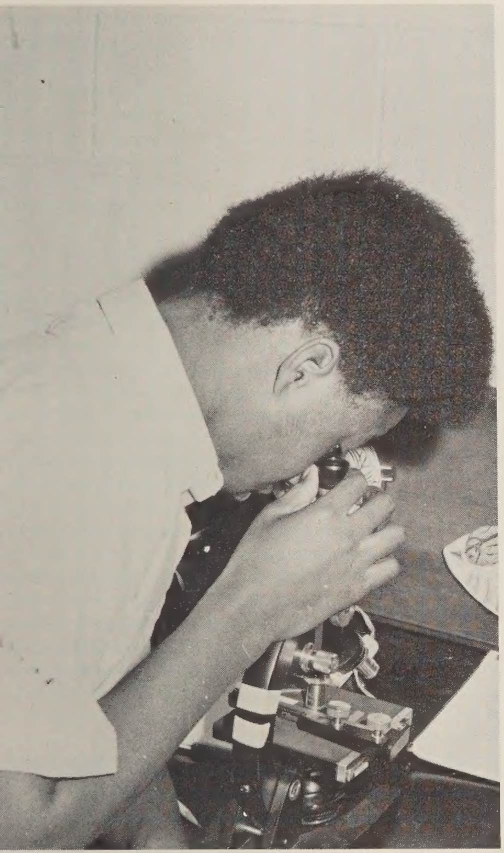
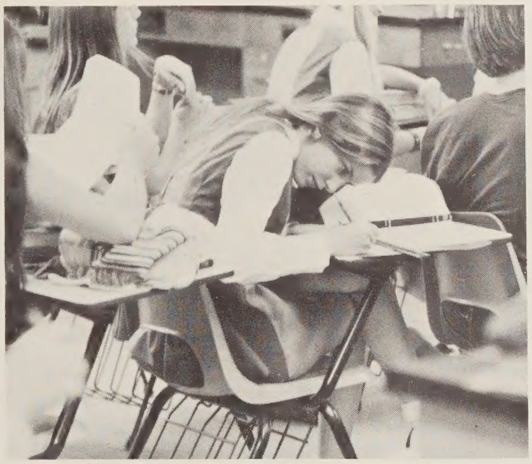
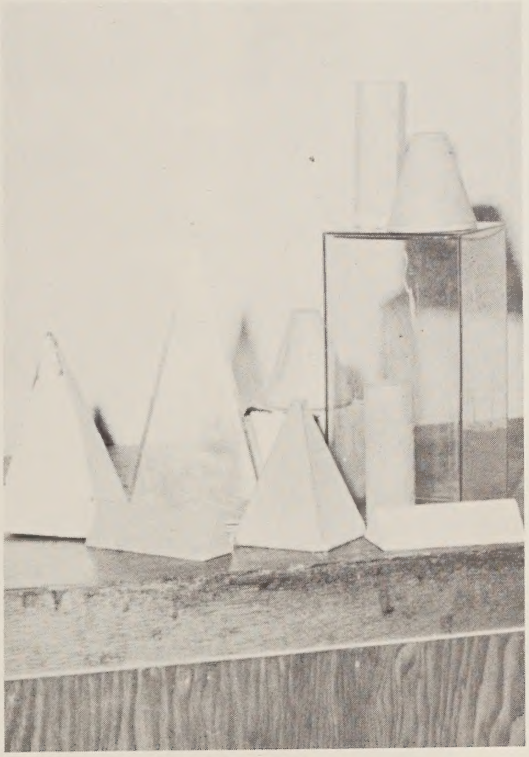
All the faculty in the music department were new to LHS this year. Mrs. Spivey led the Lex-Hi Singers to an excellent year of choral activities while Mr. Freeman and Mr. Hounshell conducted the band both on and off the field.

Science







As always, there are many things the science students at LSHS will remember from this year: Chemistry students playing Newscope for high stakes—$100,000 bars; Biology students being stifled by the smell of formaldehyde; Physics students slinging balls around their heads and learning about WW II. But first and foremost, all science students will remember taking NOTES.

GIANT

How is it that after one hundred eighty days of math under Mr. Rhodes, students remember most vividly the one day of harmonica playing? About the only other thing Seniors remember is associating the law of probability with odds of losing at the fair. Mrs. Johnson's "surprise" Friday pop tests kept students awake at least one day a week. Playing Bingo provided occasional relief from Mrs. Hix's angles. Mr. Williams added an interesting touch to each test with a humorous bonus question. Mrs. O'-Halloran temporarily left us while awaiting a visit from the stork and was replaced by Mrs. Grogan.

Was "The Lottery" beautiful, Mrs. Lewis? Sue Anderson didn't think so. Many agonies were suffered by the English students: "Whan that Aprille . . ." and MACBETH, for example. Some students were heard rueing the day they were born while struggling to comprehend JOB and J.B. However, relief was provided by outside activities such as attending a speech workshop at Chapel Hill, Richard III at UNC-G, and THE IMPORTANCE OF BEING EARNEST at Wake Forest. For the writer, there were many opportunities to excel this year: the Pfeiffer College poetry contest, the Alcoholism contest, and the numerous local writing contests.

As our assistant principal, Mr. Moody confidently assumed the responsibilities of his new office. With the help of Mrs. Price and Mr. England, new rules were enforced and students became aware of some changes in former habits. The confusion involved in many of the changes was smoothly handled by our secretaries.

Under administrative supervision, a new atmosphere was created at L.S.H.S. With the completion of new facilities, slight changes in assembly procedure, and enforcement of new rules, the enthusiasm of Mr. LeGette and the administration generated a "new" feeling for L.S.H.S. students.

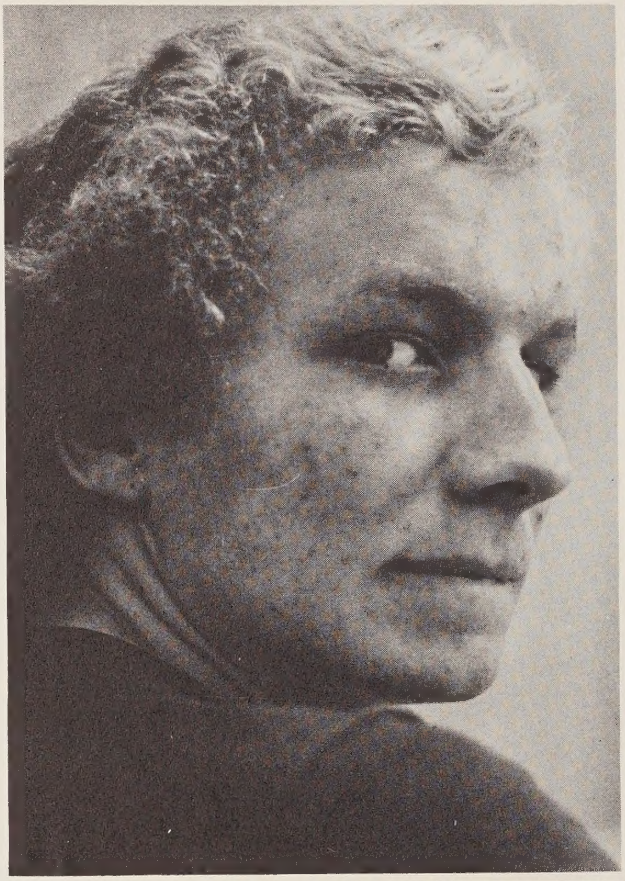
Funny Faces

In the words of Goofy Grape:

"Are these people trying to imitate our funny faces?"

Imitate? No. Our "funny" faces are not those of Choo Choo Cherry, Loudmouth Lemon, or even Rootin' Tootin' Raspberry. These are immortal. Our meagre offerings are but the faces of the students of L.S.H.S.

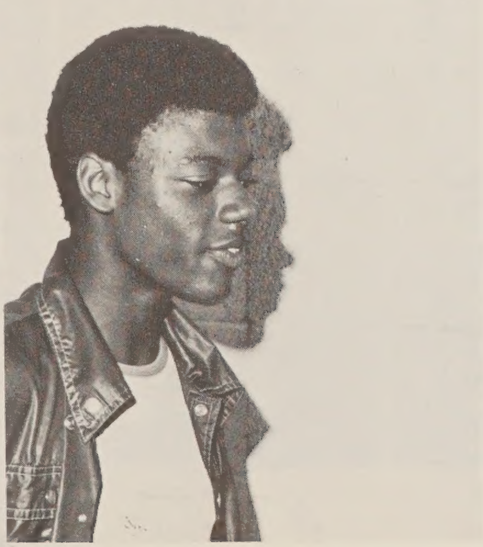


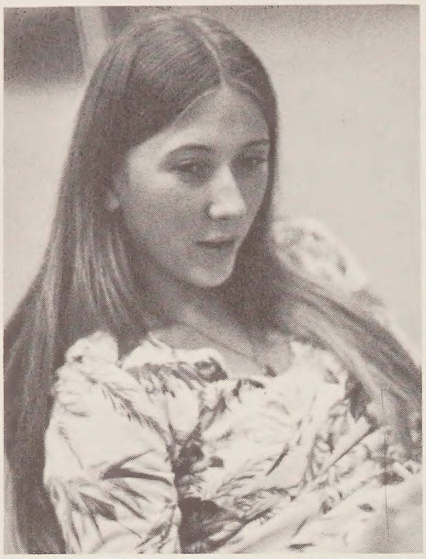
Everyday Faces

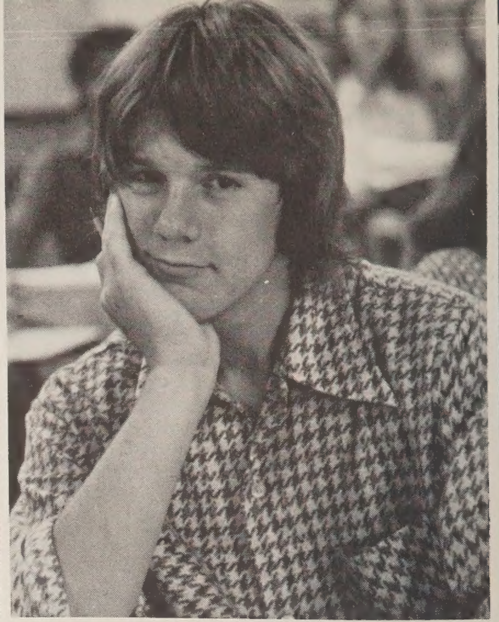
In the words of Abraham Lincoln:

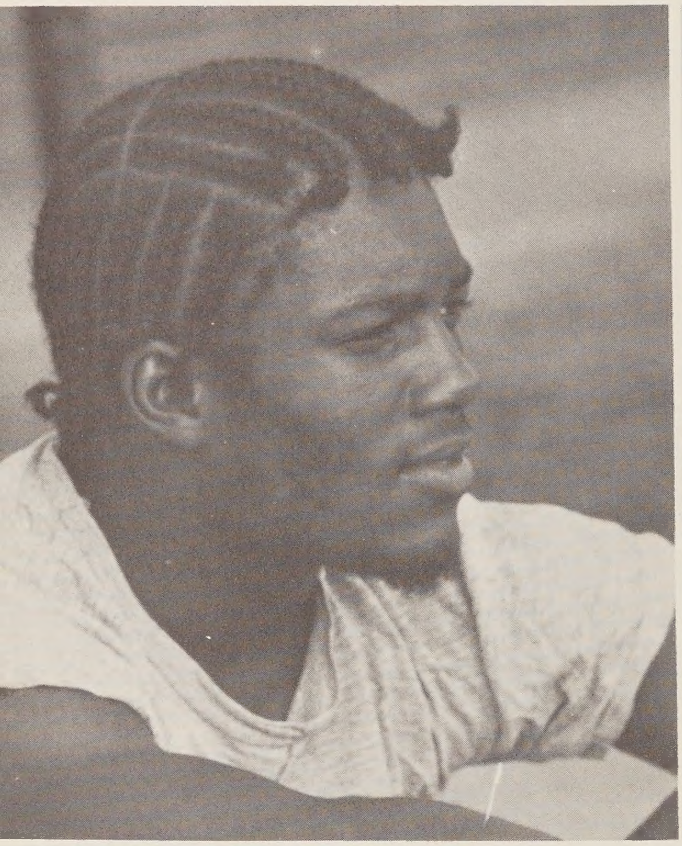
"The Lord prefers common-looking people."

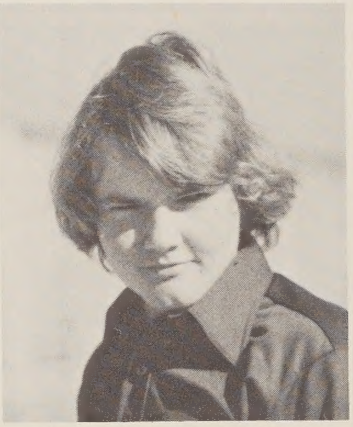
Could that be the reason for so many "everyday" faces at L.S.H.S.? No doubt these expressions are typical because of the daily fear of Mrs. Helvey's English class. But why so many? Surely not everyone is sentenced to the "grammar test." No, we feel the reason lies in the students' devotion to "football, hotdogs, apple pie, and Chevrolet."

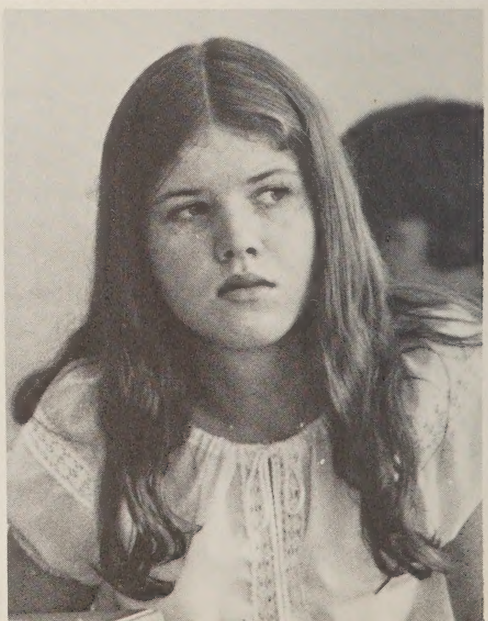


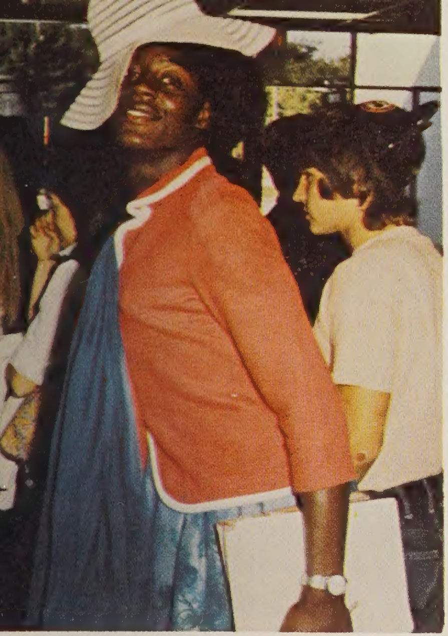


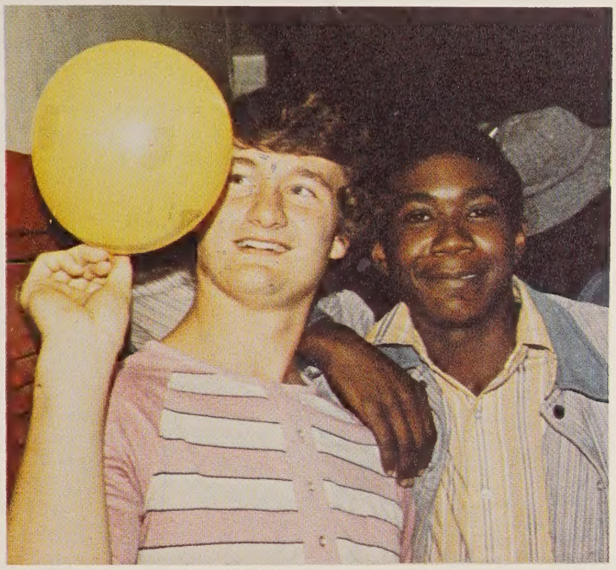












Unusual Faces

In the words of Dr. Frank N. Stine:

"Vhat is vrong vith the younger generation?"

Well Doctor, we have been wondering ourselves. One can obviously tell from these "unusual" faces that the younger generation of L.S.H.S. is not in tune with today's world. Could our problem lie in our peanut butter . . .? in our deodorant . . .?
or perhaps in our rejection of Crest . . .?

THERE IS!
